RAMMING OF SUBMARINE BY A BRITISH SHIP MAY AFFECT GERMAN REPLY

Berlin Statement Says That British Tanker Had Been Ordered to Stop.

BEARING ON THE NOTE

Germany Cannot Stop Submarine Warfare, is Sentiment Now Shown.

Newspaper Comment Concerning the Situation.

Berlin, June 18, via London, June 19.—A statement given out by the German admiralty, to the effect that the German submarine U-29 had been rammed and sunk by a British tank steamer after the vessel had been ordered to stop, is expected to have an important bearing upon the German-American negotiations. German naval officers and the public at large ask how it is possible for German submarines to treat merchantmen in the way requested by the United States, or to take steps to ascertain the nationality of ships displaying neutral flags in the war zone, so long as British captains adhere to the rules laid down by the admiralty.

The announcement published by the German admiralty regarding the fate of the U-29, which was made in a most positive form, and as if the German admiralty had conclusive evidence upon which to base its statement, will, in the opinion of well informed persons here, make a deeper impression on the public mind than would almost any other possible event.

Weddigen a Popular Hero.

Captain Weddigen, the commander of the U-29, was a popular hero in Germany, ranking in popular esteem with the army leader, Field Marshal Von Hindenburg. The loss of the German undersea boat under the circumstances, prominent Germans say, undoubtedly will stiffen the nation in the belief that it is impossible to introduce any changes in submarine methods so long as Great Britain does not at least withdraw its instructions regarding neutral flags and attacks upon submarines.

Under the headline of "Weddigen and the American Note," the Kreuz Zeitung in a leading article today resumes consideration of submarine warfare. The newspaper declares that the fate of the U-29 as announced by the German admiralty demonstrates the danger of first investigating and then sinking ships, and raises the assumption that the German successes would have been much greater if this consideration had been discarded.

"The incident further shows plainly," the newspaper continues, "what meaning America's demand has that submarines should not torpedo even enemy merchantmen without first halting and searching them. It would be a complete surrender of the advantage due to technical superiority of the German submarines and that is not possible.

"We have all due respect for America's business interests but we must reserve the right to try to keep American ammunition from our enemies without scruple and with all the means at our disposal and to cause every conceivable damage to Great Britain in the war of destruction which is forced upon us.

"Therefore, the American demand to render ineffective our submarine war against every ship carrying American passengers is for us wholly impossible."

Count Reventlow, the naval critic, in a leading article along a similar vein, says:

"It is our moral duty to extract every possible advantage from the submarine weapon. Germany cannot let this weapon be shut up as in a cage whose bars are formed by threatening notes of the United States and by international regulations.

"Now is the time for Germany to inform the world clearly and sharply that it will not let limits and restrictions be drawn by other powers to govern the manner of using its submarines."

ENGLAND SAYS REPORT UNTRUE.

Submarine Was Sunk by Battleship According to London.

London, June 19.—An official statement made public by the British government today declared that the German submarine U-29 commanded by Captain Otto Weddigen, which was destroyed two months ago, was sunk by one of his majesty's ships. This belated announcement apparently was issued at this time to dispose of the report current in Germany that the U-29 was rammed by a British tank steamer flying the Swedish flag.

German newspaper editorials reaching London today are all based on the theory that a British merchantman and not a warship, as asserted by the British admiralty, sank the German submarine.

INVESTIGATE ALLEGED RECRUITING IN WEST.

Department of Justice Looking Closely Into Charges Against Allies.

San Francisco, June 19.—Department of Justice agents are investigating alleged recruiting in California for the Allies in the European war, it was learned today. The main office of the supposed recruiting agents is in San Francisco.

Franz Bopp, German consul general in San Francisco, was said to have supplied information upon which the investigation is based. But he denied this. On good authority, it was stated that some of the investigators had found no trouble in enlisting.

John W. Preston, Federal attorney, declined to discuss the situation.

COURT OF INQUIRY HEARS DEFENDANT

One of the Accused Midshipmen Made a Witness.

EXAMINATION SCANDAL

First Time During Investigation that one of the Defendant Midshipmen Has Been Heard—Tells of "Dope" Sheets.

Annapolis, Md., June 19.—The first appearance on the stand of a defendant midshipman was an interesting feature of today's session of the court of inquiry investigating the "cribbing" scandal at the Naval Academy. Midshipman A. G. Rogers was the witness. He was subjected to a searching cross examination by members of the court. It developed that Rogers, who was a member of the third class, had translated for upper classmen copies of advance information on the Spanish examination.

When asked to explain how it was that two men in the two classes ahead of him who had been at the Academy three and four years, respectively, needed his assistance in passing their final examination, the witness said he was unable to do so.

Rogers said he first saw a copy of the "dope" when it was brought to him by Midshipman Price of the then second class and Midshipman (now ensign) Confer, both of whom are defendants in the present proceedings. The young man testified that he only made about three copies and after doing so he found when he got into the examination room that what he had translated was practically the examination itself. He felt no responsibility resting upon him, he declared, to report the matter to the Academy authorities.

Midshipman Rogers was questioned at some length concerning the system at the Academy whereby a student, once he gets into the so-called "wooden" section was marked more stringently than the student in the "Savvy" section.

"The probable unfair advantage gained in this, if such advantage is gained, lasts throughout a man's whole service in the navy, and is never equalized, is it?" asked the court.

The witness was of the opinion that it was never equalized.

The first testimony as to the existence of an advance copy of the last examination in the modern language department was offered today. Midshipman Edward T. Jones told of seeing the paper on the desk of his roommate, T. W. Harrison, one of the midshipmen defendants.

New York, June 19.—W. M. Washburn won the Metropolitan championship tennis singles today on the Bronxville Athletic association courts, scoring his second, holding of the title by defeating Robert LeRoy 6-1, 6-3, 7-5.

HARD FIGHTING AT THE DARDANELLES

Turks Putting Up Strong Resistance to the Allies.

REAL TRENCH WARFARE

Associated Press Correspondent Spends Two Days in Turkish Trenches and Tells of Conditions He Found on Peninsula.

Krithia, Dardanelles, June 17, via London, June 19.—Allied troops who landed at Seddul Bahr, on the Gallipoli peninsula, hold about ten square miles of the extreme southern part of the peninsula. The occupancy is coupled with the greatest difficulties.

The ground held by the Allies consists principally of a small plateau north of Seddul Bahr and two adjoining ridges to the northwest, between which the Turks are pushing advance trenches.

The Associated Press correspondent, who spent two days in the trenches, found the Turkish troops in excellent condition and spirits, in spite of the fact that the Allies are using every conceivable means to carry on the operations, including bombs thrown from catapults and from aeroplanes.

From the Turkish station of artillery fire control the effect of the Turkish fire upon the Allied trenches could be observed today and the shells were reaching the mark. The sanitary and supply services of the Turks are being carried on efficiently. The number of wounded at the hospital bases at the front was small, although the fighting during the night had been fairly severe.

Inactive During Day.

During the day time both sides are usually inactive, the Turks preferring night bayonet attacks. Many Turkish batteries are in position, but the nearness of the opposing trenches makes their work difficult and for the most part they are directing their attention to the reserves of the Allies and to changing shifts which are exposed at certain points. The Turks in this have the support of their heavy batteries on the Asiatic side which, since the retirement of the Allied fleet, work without fear of being molested, bombarding chiefly the Allied right wing, composed of French, home and Colonial troops.

Weber Pasha, the German general commanding the south group, gave the correspondent every opportunity to visit the Seddul Bahr district declaring no restrictions whatever upon the correspondent's movements. The result was a thorough inspection of the ground. Weber Pasha made no comment on the situation himself beyond saying that "the failure of the Allies to consummate their plan of forcing the Dardanelles is too obvious for discussion."

Weber Pasha, who is a member of the German military mission which undertook the improvement of the Ottoman army organization, is fully confident that the Turks will be able to meet the Gallipoli situation and that the Allies will never advance against the Dardanelles forts.

It has been ascertained that only a few German officers are active in the south group. German privates are employed in special lines.

Krithia was once a thriving village of about 4,000 inhabitants. By their bombardment the Allies left no house in the town standing.

MEXICAN MATTERS TAKE GRAVE TURN BREAK EXPECTED

Crisis Develops in Carranza's Cabinet and First Chief May be Eliminated.

OBREGON SHOWS TEETH

Villa Commander in Sonora Objects Vigorously to U. S. Troops Landing.

Washington, June 19.—General Venustiano Carranza, original leader of the Mexican Constitutionalist movement, is face to face with a situation that may eliminate him as a factor in Mexican politics unless he yields to the dictation of his commanding general, Alvara Obregon, and other high officers in his army.

Official advices today revealed that four of Carranza's cabinet ministers had resigned and that General Obregon was insisting on their retention as well as the dismissal of the members to whom they were opposed.

Word also came to the American government that General Jose Maytorena, the Villa commander in Sonora, objected vigorously to the possible landing of American marines to rescue Americans in the Yaqui valley, indicating that he would regard such action as a hostile invasion. Inasmuch as Maytorena promised to send troops to the region to protect foreigners, the American government, which had decided to land marines only if absolutely necessary, it is understood will consider the incident closed with the arrival of the Maytorena troops.

Watch Cabinet Crisis.

The situation in the Yaqui valley was overshadowed, however, by the cabinet crisis at Vera Cruz, where a new angle of the entire Mexican problem was created almost over night. The dissension in the Carranza cabinet according to the official reports resulted from a newspaper attack by one of the cabinet members on some of his colleagues, but in many quarters here it was believed the trouble was of long standing and is the culmination of differences between Carranza and Obregon which began when the latter occupied Mexico City several months ago.

The fact that Obregon had telegraphed Carranza insisting on the retention of the four cabinet members, Luis Cabrera, Rafael Zubaran, Escudero and Jesus Verta—the first two of whom were in Washington for a long time as representatives of Carranza, was generally viewed as an indication of Obregon's ascendancy to a position of political prestige in the Constitutionalist movement. News coming through official channels that Carranza had removed his headquarters to the old, isolated fortress San Juan De Ulloa, in the harbor of Vera Cruz, spread the impression that he feared an uprising against him in Vera Cruz. American warships lying in the harbor would give him asylum should he desire to escape, it was stated.

The cabinet crisis in Vera Cruz has halted the movement of General Pablo Gonsales on Mexico City. It is not known what his sympathies are, but he has always been personally friendly to Carranza and it is believed here he has halted his troops to await developments at Vera Cruz.

In Favor of Obregon.

General Candido Aguilar and several other prominent Carranza chieftains in the state of Vera Cruz are sympathetic with Obregon and while there is little definite information available the impression in official quarters tonight was that Obregon might succeed Carranza as first chief of the Constitutionalist movement.

President Wilson is patiently waiting for the situation in Mexico to develop itself more clearly before announcing his next move.

MANY BANKERS GO ON OCEAN VOYAGE

Annual Convention Closes With Election of Officers

INGLE MAKES ADDRESS

J. L. Armfield, of Thomasville, Succeeds Thomas E. Cooper, of Wilmington, as President—President Wilson Endorsed.

A party of more than fifty including bankers and members of their families, left yesterday afternoon on the Clyde Line steamer Comanche for an ocean voyage to New York, after the adjournment of the North Carolina Bankers' Association at the Seashore Hotel at Wrightsville Beach shortly before noon. Mr. J. L. Armfield, of Thomasville, was elected president to succeed Mr. Thomas E. Cooper of Wilmington. Prior to the election of officers for the ensuing year, Hon. William Ingle, Reserve agent of the Richmond Federal Reserve bank, delivered an address which was heard with close attention and is expected to prove to be an important factor in bringing about a closer relation between the North Carolina banks and the new financial system.

The New Officers.

Mr. Armfield, who succeeds Mr. Thos. E. Cooper, president of the American National bank of Wilmington, is president of the Bank of Thomasville. He served as first vice president of the association the past year and is succeeded by Mr. W. S. Brackeney, president of the Bank of Union, of Monroe. Mr. W. R. Drake, Jr., vice president and cashier of the Merchants' National Bank, of Raleigh, who formerly lived in Wilmington was made second vice president.

Mr. James A. Gray, Jr., of Winston-Salem, was elected third vice president to succeed Mr. Drake. The election was by ballot, the three nominees being Messrs. A. M. Dumay, of Washington, and E. Sluder, of Asheville. Mr. Gray received a large majority of the votes.

Five new members were elected to the executive committe which is now constituted of the following members: First district, C. S. Carr, Greenville; second, J. B. Ramsey, Rocky Mount; third, J. B. Bladen, Newbern; fourth, F. N. Edgerton, Louisburg, fifth, N. Ellington, Greensboro; sixth, C. E. Taylor, Jr., Wilmington; seventh, Hinton James, Laurinburg; eighth, W. H. Worth Jefferson; ninth, George Blanton, Shelby; tenth, J. Robert Long, Bryson City.

Mr. W. A. Hunt, who has been the popular secretary of the association for several years, was re-elected for another term by acclamation.

Following the election and the installation of officers, Thomas J. Golds, Esq., of High Point, in behalf of the members of the association presented to the retiring president a handsome set of silver goblets. Mr. Cooper responded to the address of presentation by Mr. Gold with a few words of grateful appreciation.

Wilson's Policy Endorsed.

The convention adopted resolutions expressing confidence in President Wilson's policy for preserving an honorable peace and assuring him of the earnest support of the organization in the future no matter what may be the outcome of the present negotiations.

GRODEK FALLS BEFORE THE TEUTONIC FORCES ARE NEARER LEMBERG

Strongly Fortified Galician Town Taken by Teutonic Allies.

RIVER TANEW CROSSED

Petrograd Admits That Crisis is at Hand—Making Last Stand.

French Are Keeping Up Their Offensive in the West.

London, June 19.—The strongly fortified Galician town of Grodek, where it was predicted the Russians would make such a stubborn stand, has fallen before the Austro-German assault, according to tonight's Austrian official statement; the river Tanew, believed to be another strong barrier, has been crossed; Komarno, only a few miles south of Grodek, has been taken, and the Austro-German forces are within less than a day's march of Lemberg, capital of Galicia.

These claims were forecast in the German official statement from Berlin, which preceded that from Vienna. The Berlin statement asserted that the Grodek positions were being attacked, the Russians in the north retrating as far as the Tanew line. The Austrians subsequently recorded the fall of Grodek and claimed that the south bank of the Tanew had been cleared of Russians.

Earlier in the day a resume of the Galician situation from Petrograd said that the then existing disposition of the Russian forces in the vicinity of Lemberg meant a crisis and that the holding or losing of the line should determine the fate of the Galician capital.

French Continue Offensive.

The French ar keeping up their offensive in the Arras sector and the British again have attacked the German positions around Hooge, gaining a considerable stretch of trenches which, according to the latest advices, they are holding. Of this gain the German official statement makes no mention.

The British admiralty has announced officially that the German submarine U-29 which was sunk in March, fell a victim to a British warship, the name of which is not disclosed. The presumable reason for this tardy announcement became apparent only when a flood of Berlin editorials in which it was stated that the U-29 was sunk by a merchant ship, reached London. This being accepted in Germany as a fact, it was argued editorially that Germany could not relax one whit her warfare against merchantmen which might ram and destroy submarines seeking to search them before firing a torpedo.

At the time the U-29 was sunk it was rumored in England that she was rammed and cut in two by a battleship or dreadnought.

BIG BATTLESHIP ARIZONA AFLOAT

Newest American Dreadnought Launched

IS ONE OF TWO LARGEST

With Her Sister-Ship, the Pennsylvania, New Dreadnought is the Largest in the World—Daniels Makes an Address.

New York, June 19.—The new battleship Arizona was successfully launched at the Brooklyn Navy Yard today. The Arizona shares with her sister-ship, the Pennsylvania, recently launched at Newport News, the honor of being the world's largest battleship.

She went to the river with the wine and water of her christening trickling in revulets down her bow from two broken bottles, that swung, bound together by a long red, white and blue cord of silk. Miss Esther Ross, of Prescott, Ariz., the sponsor, made a fair throw as the big hull quivered and slid slowly forward; the froth of the wine spattered her gown and the clothes of those in her party.

From the navy yard, black with a holiday throng, from the spans of the Brooklyn and Williamsburg bridges, from the docks and piers along the manhattan and Brooklyn water fronts, from scores of craft hugging the far shore of the East river, and from every vantage point of window and house top in the vicinity, many tens of thousands saw the newest of American battleships glide down the ways.

From the grandstand, the christening was witnessed by Secretary Daniels, Army and Navy officers, Governor Hunt, Senator Ashurst and others of the Arizona state official party, and representatives of the city of New York, including Mayor Mitchel. After the launching, Secretary Daniels was principal speaker at a luncheon at the navy yard.

To Protect Dreadnoughts.

He said Navy Department experts are experimenting with devices by which it is hoped to protect future American dreadnoughts against submarine torpedo attacks.

After describing the work done on three of the five dreadnoughts authorized for the navy by the last Congress the Secretary said:

"The experts are at present considering the best general type for the two remaining authorized dreadnoughts while experiments are being made with a view to their protection under the water against the submarine torpedo which has proved so deadly in the present European war."

"The launching of this big dreadnought," Mr. Daniels added, "is an event which tells better than can be spoken by any words the steady and orderly growth of the navy. Within the past year I have had the pleasure of witnessing at Quincy the launching

AFTER PRESENT WAR WORLD WILL WANT PERMANENT PEACE

Mr. Gilbert C. Stephenson Addresses Student Conference.

Asheville, N. C., June 19.—Gilbert C. Stephenson, of Winstin-Salem, speaking to an open air meeting of college and university students in attendance upon the summer students' conference at the Y. M. C. A. at Blue Ridge today, declared that the close of the present war in Europe will place the nations of the world in a position to consider plans for permanent peace.

Speaking on "the relation of college men with the world-wide peace movement," he said that college men can do much during the next five years to create friendly relations among the representatives of many nations. They must understand their work and must begin the performance of their task with a determination to bring strained relations to a close. He predicted that more foreign students will enter American colleges during the next five years than during the past quarter of a century.

KANSAS CITY PREPARING FOR FLOODS FROM RIVER

Situation Growing Serious—Those in Lower Parts of City Moving.

Kansas City, Mo., June 19.—Residents of the lower sections of Kansas City tonight were preparing to meet flood conditions which, according to the government weather bureau may prevail within 48 hours.

In the wholesale and packing house district hundreds of men were carrying goods to second floors. Kansas river was rising at the rate of .4 if a foot an hour.

With the Kansas river rising two and three inches an hour, residents of North Topeka, Kan., were moving our tonight.

Since the 1908 flood dikes have been erected, which are expected to take care of the river up to the 30 foot stage at Topeka but early tonight the stage was 23.3 feet, with the weather bureau predicting a stage of at least 24 feet tomorrow.

Newark, N. J., June 19.—Bill McKechnie, of the Newark Federal League club, today was appointed manager temporarily to succeed Hill Phillips, whose resignation was accepted by the club's owners. Six recent defeats by one-run margins led to the decision to change managers.

BRYAN DECLARES WAR UPON TWO FORMER PRESIDENTS AT A LABOR PEACE CONVENTION

Former Secretary Declares Taft and Roosevelt Leading Sponsors of Organizations Standing for the Use of Force in International Affairs— Appeals for Wilson.

New York, June 19.—William Jennings Bryan, addressing a labor peace meeting at Carnegie Hall here tonight, attacked former Presidents Roosevelt and Taft as leading sponsors of organizations which stood for the use of force in international affairs and which the former Secretary of State declared were inimical to the true interests of this country and to the cause of international peace.

Mr. Bryan began his address by declaring that he could find no more favorable auspices than those of tonight for beginning the work which he felt it his duty to perform—aiding "in the crystallizing of the sentiment in favor of peace in support of the President in his efforts to reach an amicable settlement of all differences that may, during the war, arise between this country and belligerent powers."

He alluded to the "labor element" as an "honorable appellation" and declared that no advocate of peace could have a deeper interest in its preservation than the laboring man, who, without any pecuniary interest in war, recognized that it was hurtful to him as bringing about enforced idleness, increasing taxes and in calling upon him probably among the first to take up arms, and leaving the aftermath of war to be borne in great measure by him or his family. Therefore, Mr. Bryan argued, it was natural that a peace movement should begin with the laboring man and that organized labor, because of its readily operative machinery, should take the lead in such a movement. Mr. Bryan continued:

"Those who work in the cause of peace will find it necessary to combat the forces of militarism as well as to do educational work in behalf of the principles upon which the hope of permanent peace rests, and I deem this an opportune time and place to invite you to enter a protest against two organizations which are already asking the support of the public. Both of those organizations are officered and manned by men of great respectability.

The Roosevelt Organization.

"One of the these organizations has for its object a large increase in the army and navy. It has set for itself the task of providing for the national security and it is busily engaged in minimising the force and effectiveness of our army and navy in order to furnish arguments in favor of the enlargement of both. Ex-President Roosevelt is the most potential factor in this group and it is quite natural that on account of his prominence, his great ability and his extreme views, he should direct the general policy of the organization. He discredits not only the intelligence, but even the motives of those whom he contemptuously describes as pacifists and advocates of "peace at any price." He more than intimates that they are physical cowards and that their attitude on international questions is due to fear of bodily injury.

"It is not necessary to answer Mr. Roosevelt upon the low plane upon which he pitches the controversy. It is entirely possible to credit him with the purest motives and the sincerest patriotism and yet resolutely oppose the methods which he would employ for the safeguarding of the country.

"Mr. Roosevelt might be excluded from the list of the nation's advisors on all matters relating to peace or war on the ground that he is so anx-

FRANK MAY NOT KNOW FATE UNTIL TUESDAY

Slaton Will Not Reach Decision Before Then.

Governor Bids Prisoner Prepare Himself for Death as No Respite Will be Granted—Decision Monday or Tuesday.

Atlanta, Ga., June 19.—Governor Slaton stated today that he probably will not be prepared to announce his decision on Leo M. Frank's application for commutation of his sentence to life imprisonment until Monday afternoon or Tuesday morning, the day set for Leo Frank's execution for the murder of Mary Phagan.

The governor said positively that there will be no respite granted in Frank's case, but by Tuesday he will decide either to commute the sentence or to decline to interfere. "The judgment of the court," said the governor, "should cause the prisoner to prepare for death. In the event my decision is adverse, he has had ample time to make preparation."

EXPECTED INCREASE IN PAY NOT COMING

Postal Clerks and Carriers to be Disappointed.

Congress Failed to Provide Funds for Increase in Pay Scheduled to Begin July 1.—No Way Out Is Seen at Present.

(Special Star Telegram.)

Washington, D. C., June 19.—There is sadness and disappointment in every town in the United States where the population is large enough to afford a presidential postmaster and rural carriers. Congress before adjourning failed to provide sufficient funds to take care of the increase in salary to clerks and carriers which becomes due July 1.

Thousands upon thousands of these clerks and carriers who have taken great pains to make a record during the last year in order that they might get this deserved increase will be disappointed. Several thousand of them live in North Carolina. Every State in the Union, however, is affected.

The postal appropriation bill was passed by both houses but because of some difference the conferees failed to agree and the bill did not become a law before the last Congress adjourned. Therefore, there is no appropriation to pay the extra compensation. The Postoffice Department today urged Comptroller of the Treasury Downey to rule on the subject. They entertain a faint hope that the comptroller, who is the court of last resort in matters of this character, will find some way whereby the employes may receive their just increase. They admit, however, that there seems no way out of the tangle.

It is now certain that only one clerk in the internal revenue service in North Carolina will be dismissed at present. This man will be fired by Collector

BECKER WILL APPEAL TO GOVERNOR WHITMAN

It is Reported He Will Tell Interesting Story.

Statement of His Attorneys at New York Indicate That Plea Will Carry Incriminating Evidence of Others.

New York, June 19.—Charles Becker's plea to Governor Whitman for executive clemency will be made soon and will contain a statement which Martin T. Manton, his counsel said here today ought not only to save his life, but set him free. Becker is under seutence to die in the electric chair during the week of July 12th for the murder of Herman Rosenthal.

Manton outlined Becker's plans as far as they have matured, upon his arrival here today from Ossining after an interview in the death house with his client.

Becker, with virtually no recourse left except executive clemency, finally has agreed to have his lawyer place such a plea before the governor, Manton said. If said clemency is denied then, Manton said, Becker would go to the chair still protesting his innocence and, in all probability leaving behind no written statement.

What Becker's plea for mercy will contain and what part the convicted man's wife will play in the final fight for his life, were topics Manton said he could not discuss.

Asheville, N. C., June 19.—The fifth annual convention of the Tri-State Water and Light Association of the Carolinas and Georgia came to a close here this afternoon, speakers at the final session of the gathering including W. E. Lotspech, of Atlanta; Gilbert C. White, of Durham, and J. T. Kerens, of New Jersey.

JAPAN WAS READY TO TAKE CHINESE CAPITAL

First Step on Programme if the Latter Had Said "No."

Next Was to Effect a Military Occupation of Other Centers of Political Power and Wealth—What Japanese Paper Said

If China had declined to meet the demands of the recent ultimatum by Japan, the Japanese programme would have been to capture Peking, which would have been "a matter before breakfast," and to have effected a military occupation of other centers of political power and wealth, according to semi-official Japanese newspapers.

The Japan Times, a journal printed in English but controlled by representative and influential Japanese, which is usually believed to have good authority for its utterances, undertook to outline the course Japan would take, even before the diplomatic crisis with China had been passed.

In most quarters its publications of these details, customarily forbidden before the outbreak of war, was regarded as officially inspired very likely with the object of convincing China that Japan was determined and would brook no delay.

The article made it clear that the "independent" action which Japan in her ultimatum said she would take if China was obdurate, would not necessarily be war. It would be better styled perhaps, a military and naval occupation of China pending acceptance of the Japanese demands. Nevertheless, it would be effectively an execution of the demands by force of arms.

The general staff had estimated the military force of China at 47 divisions, including 300,000 troops of modern training and 150,000 men of the old school. However, as these troops were scattered all over the Chinese Empire, their mobilization and concentration would be difficult.

Japan's military base would be established at Tientsin. A fundamental necessity being the control of the principal means of communication ,the Tientsin-Pekow and Peking-Mukden railroads would have to be captured. Their occupation would firmly establish a Japanese foothold in China. The troops stationed at Tsingtau would be able to "occupy Tsinanfu in a minute". The northern part of the Tientsin-Pukow railway, that is, the line between Tientsin and Tsinan, could easily be occupied, and with Tientsin the base of optration, Japanese soldiers would soon be seen marching on Peking. In Peking there was stationed one company of infantry, while in Tientsin were two companies, with machine guns. The soldiers in Peking would act as escort for Minister Hioki to Tientsin where he would embark in a warship and proceed to Japan.

The account declared that in the south moves would have to be made jointly by army and navy, and then the better part of China would be under Japanese sway. Special care would be taken to protect Japanese and other foreign residents.

"When the centers of China are guarded by a garrison, the soldiers will be disbanded. Then all places will be put under the control of our army; peace and order are to be maintained by our military administration. If the Chinese army offers no resistance, things will be carried out in peace; but when they show any resistance our soldiers will be obliged to fire upon them. And it is to be feared that engagements will take place between the Chinese and Japanese troops here and there, as the land of China is so extensive that peace cannot be established at a moment's notice."

In Manchuria, the program ontinues, the two divisions under Lieutenant Generals Hungo and Ando would be concentrated in Mukden and marshalled against the 17th, 18th and 20th divisions of the Chinese army. The two Chinese generals Chan Tso-lin and Feng Lin-ko, who command these divisions, would soon surrender when informed of the real situation. The northern part of the Peking-Mukden railway would be captured by Japanese troops. Great forces would then be landed at some points in the province of China; Peking would be seized immediately. Indeed, the fall of Peking, as stated, would be a "matter before breakfast."

The outline concluded:

"In the South the power of our navy will soon tell. The Chinese ships can immediately be swept from the coast; and our land forces can be disembarked without any difficulty. The British troops garrisoned in Hong Kong may be asked to co-operate with our soldiers in this part of the country. Thus our troops will carry all before them wherever they go in the land."

get together, but in the event of failure the active support of the United States will be given to an entirely new set of Mexicans—a coalition it is expected, of the Villa-Zapata faction, which has demonstrated its willingness to make peace, and other elements identified with the other factions or parties.

WORK BEGINS MONDAY ON BIG BREAKWATER

Ceremony Scheduled for Yesterday Abandoned.

Senator Simmons, Colonel Pearsall and Others Present for Placing of First Stone, But Weather Was Rough.

(Special Star Telegram.)

Newbern, N. C., June 19.—The first stone to be used in the construction of the breakwater at Cape Lookout was not placed in position today as was expected and the program that had been arranged for this occasion was not carried out. It had been planned for the first barge of rock to be dumped by Senator F. M. Simmons, and he went to Morehead City for that purpose yesterday, but the water was so rough this morning the men employed to carry the flat to the cape, could not get beyond the inlet.

Several attempts were made to reach the Cape but all were fruitless, and twice was the large cable wire used in towing the flat parted by the force of the terrific wind blowing against the flat.

There were quite a number of prominent men of the eastern part of the State at Morehead City today, who had gone there for the purpose of seeing Senator Simmons pull the lever which allowed the stone to fall through a trap door in the bottom of a lighter, floated by air tight pontoons, when the doors were opened, and to hear the opening address, which was to have been made by Col. P. M. Pearsall, of this city.

While the program will not be carried out, the work of constructing this huge wall will begin Monday if the weather conditions will allow. About 20 carloads of stone have been unloaded at Morehead City and other shipments are being made daily from the Norfolk Southern quarry near Wilson. It is stated that, beginning in the near future, a train of about 40 cars loaded with stone will pass through Newbern every day for Morehead City.

BRYAN DECLARES WAR UPON TWO FORMER PRESIDENTS, TO LABOR

lous to get into any contest that involves blood-letting that he cannot be trusted to deal with any phases of the subject."

Mr. Bryan declared that Mr. Roosevelt's plan of making this nation "a rival of the powers of the old world in military and naval preparation" would involve indefinite increase in expenditure for ships and men "to be continued so long as other nations continue to increase."

Mr. Roosevelt's plan, Mr. Bryan said would make the United States a "vast armory with skull and crossbones above the door, and the designing architect of the system will go in and out in uniform with the proud consciousness that our nation no longer contains molly-coddles or weaklings."

Mr. Bryan declared, however, that there was no danger of Mr. Roosevelt's organization securing a numerous following, "when its real purpose becomes known" and he urged the laboring men of the country to see that its purpose was clearly understood and give to the President assurances of support to counteract any influence that the jingoes may seek to exert."

The Taft Organization.

Of the other organization with former President Taft, "its most conspicuous sponsor," Mr. Bryan declared that although Mr. Taft himself had been prominently identified with the cause of peace, and men associated with him in the organization, "were at least not antagonistic to peace," the idea that many persons may have had of regarding "Mr. Taft's organization as the best weapon with which to fight the Roosevelt organization" was a mistaken one.

"When the plan of the Taft organization is understood," continued Mr. Bryan, "it will be seen that its effect is to aid rather than to obstruct the Roosevelt propaganda. If the purpose of Mr. Roosevelt's organization is to make preparation for war pleasant, Mr. Taft's organization may be regarded as furnishing a plausible pretext of the preparation which Mr. Roosevelt advises."

Mr. Bryan called attention to the word "enforce" in the title of the "League to Enforce Peace" and the declaration in a speech by President Lowell of Harvard university at the recent Philadelphia meeting that it was aimed to discourage war by "the threat to use force."

"Their plan," continued, Mr. Bryan "is to organize an international police force which will compel peace and compel it by the use of force. That means that we shall make ourselves partners with other nations in the waging of war. Before we can promise to enter into partnership with other nations in future wars, to must repudiate the advice of Washington, who warned us against "entangling alliances." The American people will be very slow to enter into any arrangement which will involve us in the quarrels of Europe.

"The plan also would involve a surrender of the Monroe Doctrine. We could hardly refuse to allow Europeans to take part in the settlement of disputes in the Western Hemisphere. The American people will not look with favor upon so revolutionary a change in our national policy."

The speaker declared that the plan proposed by the league would vest the power to declare war in a group of nations in which the United States naturally would not exercise a controlling influence and he felt assured, he said, that it would be impossible to secure a two-thirds majority in Congress for a resolution proposing the surrender of its right to declare war, or that three-fourths of the states would approve such constitutional amendment if the resolution passed Congress. Still another objection was urged by Mr. Bryan against the league's plan in that it would be a departure from the American position as "the friend of all nations and the counselor of many."

This, declared Mr. Bryan, would impair our influence and jeopardize our moral prestige.

"Listen not to those who measure 'world powers' in units of force. We have been a world power for more than a century and we cannot afford to exchange the moral influence which we now have for the military glory of all the empires that have risen and fallen since time began. I appeal to you, therefore to remain true to the ideals of the fathers. It remains for the common people of today to make known to the President their firm adherence to the principles which have made us the foremost nation in the advocacy of peace."

Prolonged Cheering.

Mr. Bryan was greeted with prolonged cheering by the large crowd that filled the hall. After reading his prepared speech the former Secretary continued for some time extemporaneously.

"In a paper this morning, the losses for the first six months of the war was given as 2,146,000 killed and 4,931,000 wounded," he said. "No man in Europe today knows from the lips of the ruler what they are fighting about. Ten months have passed and we find increasing suffering, increasing destruction and increasing devastation. They have not only killed themselves, but they have disturbed all the neutral countries in the world. They have kept us busy spending money to keep out of war.

"If this war does nothing else it will teach that peace is the normal state, and when it is over we will have some laws that will protect neutral nations. The time will come, and it is not far off, when an offer of mediation will be in order. This is the natural nation to offer mediation. Every one of these nations fighting have descendants in this country and our sympathy is with all. Every soldier boy that dies over there makes us sad.

Don't Preach Hatred.

"Isn't it bad enough to have hatred preached over there, without having it preached here? The American people should stand to a man against war and for peace.

"I believe it possible to prevent war. If the plans proposed here tonight for the government to take over all the plants manufacturing arms were adopted, it would be a great help to prevent war.

"Nothing has surprised me more in my official connection than that great metropolitan papers are more interested in hendlines than they are in the people. They are trying to determine the policy of a nation and take its affairs out of the hands of the officials.

"As a private citizen I am going to use my influence to crystalize the peace sentiment so that when the jingoes tell the President what to do, the peace loving people will tell him what the real sentiment is. If a vote were taken in this country, 99 out of every 100 citizens would vote that an American owes it to his country that he should not go into the danger zone.

"How About Mexico?"

"The majority of people are willing to investigate," continued Mr. Bryan, who was heckled by some one in the gallery with "How about Mexico?"

"We have been investigating in Mexico for two years and three months and we are investigating yet. Why can't we investigate in a Christian spirit for one year on any question no matter what it is. A year's time will allow us to reach an amicable arrangement. The European countries are under a great strain now. This calm country can afford to consider the other nation's condition."

Mr. Bryan spoke of many treaties that have been negotiated with European and other countries which call for a year's investigation of all grievances.

"We can afford," he continued, "to say not only to Germany but to every country in the world 'we will give time to investigate.' Now is the time to set the world an example instead of following in the wake of old nations, show them a better way."

J. P. Holland, of the International Brotherhood of Firemen, was chairman of the meeting. Joseph D. Cannon, of the Western Federation of Miners, Meyer London, Socialist member of Congress, and Congressman Frank Buchanan, of Illinois, were other speakers.

A resolution that the patent rights for the manufacture of fire arms and other implements of war be taken from "the international capitalists who are promoting jealousy and prejudice," and turned over to the government was unanimously adopted. The resolution called for an extra session of Congress to accomplish this and other changes in the laws for the benefit of the people.

Detroit, June 19—Four world's champion pacers—Directum I, 1:58; Frank Bogash, Jr., 1:59 1-4; William, 2:00; and Anna Bradford, 2:00 3-4—are entered in the $5,000 free-for-all which is an added feature of the blue ribbon grand circuit meeting here July 26 to 30. Local driving club officials claim that never before has a quartette of such famous pacers met in the same race.

Watts. The collector has been given authority to use his own discretion as to who the unfortunate individual shall be. Before many months the Treasury Department will drop other employes now carried by Collectors Bailey and Watts. After the conference here last week in which North Carolina was pictured as the one state where illicit distilling, tax dodging and other vile things were being practiced upon the Federal government, a way was found to carry the proposed deposed deputies temporarily. They will be taken care of after July 1 on the "emergency roll." When that fund begins to run low, they will have to be dropped. Political pull and other alleged influence in behalf of politics will avail nothing, it is said.

PEEBLES TAKES CASE INTO SUPERIOR COURT

Brings Damage Suit Against Banker and Editors.

Judge Starts Suit for $20,000 Against George A. Norwood and Brown Brothers of Goldsboro—Sequel to "Contempt."

(Special Star Correspondence.)

Goldsboro, N. C., June 19.—Mr. Geo. A. Norwood, president of the National Bank, of this city, and C. A. and G. W Brown, editors and publishers of the Goldsboro Record, have been served with papers by the sheriff of this county, citing them to appear in the Superior court, Halifax county, at the July term, in a damage suit instituted against them by Judge Peebles for $20,000.

The case against the Brown brothers is a revival of the famous controversy between them and Judge Peebles, who charges them with contempt of court because they published articles alleging that the jurist was guilty of drinking too much whiskey and sentenced them to jail, after a hearing held before him at Jackson. The editors appealed and the Supreme court set aside the judgment, with an intimation that Judge Peebles should have taken recourse to the civil courts. This the judge had already done, for the complaint was already filed before the Supreme Court decision was handed down.

Judge Peebles is entering suit against Mr. Norwood, in which he claims the defendant was the ringleader in the whole affair, and will try to show that Mr. Norwood made false statements, upon whose evidence the defendants, Brown Brothers, published false statements against him (Judge Peebles) in their paper, and for which the judge charges them with contempt of court. The case was brought in Northampton but a change of venue was asked by the defendants and removal was granted to Halifax. The case is expected to be heard at the July-August term of court, which convenes the last week in July and goes through the first week of August.

It is said Judge Peebles has employed good counsel and will push the case with vigor. The editors and Mr. Norwood also will be ably defended and the case promises to be of State-wide interest, and hotly contested.

PHARR IN FIGHT IN WIN

Charlotte Man Avowed Candidate for Lieutenant Governor.

(Special Star Correspondence.)

Raleigh, N. C., June 19.—Former State Senator Pharr, of Charlotte, spent the day in the city on business with the Corporation Commission and talked freely of his candidacy for the office of lieutenant governor in the next campaign. Mr. Pharr says that he is in the race for the Democratic nomination with a determination to win and that it is the one office that he feels justified in asking the people to honor him with in that he has had long service in the office of president pro tem. of the Senate, which gives much experience along the line of the duties of the lieutenant governor. His active opponent, or rival, is Senator Max Gardner, of Cleveland county. Friends of Senator Pharr say that when candidates for State offices come to a show down for the primaries, Senator Pharr will be the only candidate that Mecklenburg will have and that her claim for representation on the State ticket is so great that this, with the personal popularity and recognized ability of the former senator, will give him special leverage in his contest for the nomination.

WANTS AN INTERNATIONAL CONFERENCE ON COTTON TARE

Commissioner Graham Calls Upon Cotton States Commissioners.

Raleigh, N. C., June 19.—Agricultural commissioners in all cotton states were asked in circulars sent out today by Commissioner of Agriculture W. A. Graham to co-operate in a request of the North Carolina Board of Agriculture that Secretary of Agriculture Houston call an international convention to consider the cotton tare question.

The Commissioner pointed out that the producer loses about eight pounds on every bale of cotton by a ruling enforced at Liverpool.

The conference would be for the purpose of finding a way to eliminate this loss.

TEACHEY DEFEATS ROSE HILL IN PRETTY GAME

Teachey, N. C., June 19.—Teachey defeated Rose Hill here yesterday by the score of 3 to 1 in the prettiest game of the season. The game was a pitchers' battle between Jerome and Kilpatrick. The visitors' only score was made in the first inning when the pitcher threw wild to first. Kilpatrick, for the locals, allowed but one hit, which was a single over short, while Jerome for the visitors, allowed only two hits, one three-base to right field by Turner and one two-base hit to left field by Mallard. Batteries: Jerome and Jerome; Kilpatrick and Boney.

HAD PELLAGRA; IS NOW CURED

Hillsboro, Ala.—J. W. Turner, of this place, says: "I ought to have written you two weeks ago, but failed to do so. I got well and then forgot to write you. I can get about like a 10-year-old boy; you ought to see me run around and tend to my farm. I can go all day just like I used to. I am so thankful to know there is such a good remedy to cure people of pellagra."

There is no longer any doubt that pellagra can be cured. Don't delay until it is too late. It is your duty to consult the resourceful Baughn.

The symptoms—hands red like sunburn, skin peeling off, sore mouth, the lips, throat and tongue a flaming red, with much mucus and choking; indigestion and nausea, either diarrhoea or constipation.

There is hope; get Baughn's big Free book on Pellagra and learn about the remedy for Pellagra that has at last been found. Address American Compounding Co., box 2097, Jasper, Ala., remembering money is refunded in any case where the remedy fails to cure.—

votion to the memory of the late Thos. J. Jarvis, former Governor of the commonwealth, was embodied in a resolution which was adopted.

Asheville extended an invitation to the association to meet in that city next year and it was referred to the executive committee which will later decide on the place for the next annual meeting.

An Enjoyable Convention.

The Clyde Line steamer Comanche which took the bankers and their friends to New York arrived in port at 3:30 o'clock, stopping en route from Jacksonville to New York. The vessel is one of the largest and handsomest steamers ever to come to Wilmington. She sailed at 5 o'clock with the party of bankers, who will arrive in the metropolis Monday afternoon. They will return to their homes by rail.

Many of the visiting bankers left for their homes yesterday afternoon and last night. There are a large number who will stay over until Monday to enjoy the advantages of the beach. The attendance was the largest in the history of the association as well as being the most enjoyed. Capt. Edgar Hinton and his efficient corps of assistants looked after the comfort of the visitors handsomely. This added much to the pleasure and enjoyment of the occasion.

Resolutions were adopted yesterday thanking the local bankers, the people of Wilmington and Wrightsville Beach, the transportation companies Capt. Edgar Hinton and his assistants of the Seashore Hotel, the Cape Fear club, the Carolina Yacht club, the local and State nswspapers and all others who were instrumental in making the convention such a great success.

The association authorized the appointment of a standing agricultural commission to look into matters of mutual interest to farmers and bankers. The matter of establishing a system of cotton warehouses was referred to this commission, which will be appointed later by the president.

Mr. O. K. LaRoque read a paper on hail insurance for growing crops in which he pointed out the advantages to be derived from such protection, especially to bankers.

Mr. Ingle took as his subject "A Co-Ordinated Banking System." He explained the advantages to be derived from the Federal Reserve System. Following his address there was an extended discussion of the relation between State banks and the Reserve System. Mr. Ingle was given a rising vote of thanks for able address.

Mr. Ingle's Address.

After reviewing briefly the conditions brought about a little less than a year ago when the European war brought about unprecedented conditions in the money market, Mr. Ingle spoke in part as follows:

"The Federal Reserve Act, intended not only to supplant the emergency currency law but to bestow other benefits upon banking and general business, including farming, while enacted into law, was not yet effective. Many people honestly felt that it would be foolhardy to attempt the revolutionizing of the banking system at a time of world-wide disturbance, preferring rather to trust the future in following paths before trodden even if somewhat thorny. Others believed that if it were possible promptly to establish the reserve banks and declare the law effective, its manifold possibilities for good would as promptly be realized. Fortunatley the counsel of these latter prevailed, with the result that on November 16th, 1914, the country witnessed a real revolution in banking, and thanks bqth to the well considered plans of the Reserve Board and the hearty and unstinted co-operation of the member banks, the occasion caused not a ripple of added disquiet. On the contrary, the moment it was realized that we had with us a law really responsive to currency and credit needs, conditions showed pronounced improvement. Not only could credit now be obtained but it was extended at diminishing rates, all before the reserve banks had loaned a dollar of the resources which they had accumulated. Faith, or more property a most reasonable certainty of the possibilities of the Reserve Act once it was established, had done its perfect work. The rest also is now history.

"As the reserve banks gradually reduced rates, it became increasingly easier both to arrange to shift loans of long standing or overdue at reserve centers, and to obtain fresh credits for the ultimate use of the farmers and merchants, permitting them both to liquidate old detbs and to undertake fresh operations. Gradually ocean carrying conditions improved, permitting generous export movement, until in the absence of the usual import trade, the country finds itself with more money at its command than ever before in its history. Obviously, while the war is responsible for most serious disturbances in many lines, it is fairer to associates effects with real causes than to attribute such troubles to changes in tariff and other national laws.

Abuse of Credit.

"It is probably the cause that nowhere else in the country was felt more seriously the shock experienced by its industries than in the Carolinas. Constant shortage of capital in a country of great actual and potential resources has tempted an extravagant overuse, yes, abuse of credit. Possibly the greater share of this credit represents borrowings for permanent capital account, and in being based upon land, machinery and the like, is the reverse of liquid. In consequence, banks which make their investments in loans so secured, and without real regard for their responsibility to their customers depositing money with them to be paid on demand, have always been dependent upon the grace of a more fortunate correspondent should trouble, either local or general, arise.

"This is all very fine, will say not only many state banks but some member institutions, but how about the other side of the picture? We shall have to take stock in a reserve bank and the stock will yield us a bare 6 per cent and no commission? This is true, but the income is apt to be steady and certain, while the security of the principal is worth consideration.

Objections Considered.

"Then, again, our friends will say that they will be required to maintain certain reserve balances and, just to think of it, these balances are to yield no interest. Why, this is nothing short of highway robbery under the sanction of the law? But let us look a bit closer into this point. Forgetting that it is fundamentally unsound to pay or expect interest on balances maintained as reserve and thus tempt their investment in directions where to yield a profit they will not be liquid, there remains that under the new law no loss of income will be experienced by a member bank for the reason that a certain minimum share of its reserve is to be with its reserve bank. The lessening of reserve requirements permitted by the Reserve Act and the loaning at home at full current rates of the sum so released will fully offset the amount heretofore received as interest on reserve balances. The smaller reserve is now permitted and is safe, for the reason that any shortage in funds can immediately be met by rediscounting. Then it must be remembered that on bona fide time and savings deposits only 5 per cent reserve is now required, and right here is to be seen an actual profit.

"Again it is urged and this time with vehemence, that the sometime honored and so-called 'exchange' charge is to be thrown into the discard and with it will go real money with which certain expenses heretofore have been met. Let us look into this for a moment.

"The average interior bank in competition for business is apt to pay 4 per cent for the use of its tools of trade. This and even more is unblushingly confessed. A costly proceeding and someone must pay the freight, and who so helpless as the holder of a check drawn by a customer of the bank under necessity of meeting this heavy charge.

"It is held to be impossible to charge a local customer for service rendered in converting into cash a check on some distant point and thus recoup part of the expense of the account of such depositor, so the charge is levied upon the innocent third party, the holder of the check who, in selling the local man $100 worth of goods, receives in payment only $99.75. But let us pursue this subject a little further. The interior bank gathers together its daily receipts of out of town checks converted into cash at par for its own people, lists them in a letter, and charges the total to some reserve city account, and on the balance made up of such dispatches the interior bank receives interest. This has been possible for the reason that the old law, soon to be fully discarded in so far as it relates to reserves, gives this fictitious quality of reserve to balances so maintained.

Corn-Mad? Use "GETS-IT," It's Sure

Makes Corns Vanish Like Magic!

A hard cap of skin makes up every corn. When you put 2 drops of "GETS-IT" on it, it shrivels up and comes right off—and there's your corn—gone by thunder! Simple as taking off your hat! That's why corn-millions have gone wild over "GETS-IT"—nothing like it ever known. Some folks, to this day, putter around with bandages, sticky tape, thick plasters, corn "pulling" salves, gouge corns out with knives, snip them with scissors, make them bleed and then howl because they can't get rid of sore corns. Use "GETS-IT." There's nothing to do but apply 2 drops. The work is done. "GETS-IT" does the rest. No pain, no fussing, no changing shoes, no limping. It never fails. Try it tonight for any corn, callus, wart or bunion. Be sure that you get "GETS-IT" and nothing else.

GRIFFON MAKE CLOTHES
ATHLETIC CUT CLOTHES

We've never offered a finer lot of suits at any price; these are among the best productions of the noted makes enumerated above. Every suit is desirable in style and pattern; every suit is of this season's make. Many of the fabrics are imported. Full lined. half lined, quarter lined, eighth lined.

This is the biggest and best sale we have ever held; we're experiencing big business; this good old town has never failed to "turn out" when the occasion justified the response.

The greater part of these fine suits is made up of extraordinary purchases effected last week—and a good many from our regular stock—these because we wanted to strengthen the size ranges all the way through.

Safety + Quickness

"Safety First" must ever be the watchword in firearms. But safety must not be secured at the expense of quick action. The Colt Automatic Pistol combines the most dependable kind of safety—automatic safety—with instant firing.

The Colt can't be discharged accidentally, because the trigger must be pulled and the safety in the grip must be pressed in at the same instant and this can't be done except it is done purposely. So much for safety.

As for quickness, the Colt always gets there first, for in an emergency you don't have to bother with or think about the grip safety—it takes care of itself and you.

TOP O' THE MORNING

"Do you know the way to God so well that you can show it to someone else and send him away rejoicing? Philip did. What else in life is so well worth while as showing a wanderer God's road?"

—Selected.

"Maintain the dignity of Mexico!" Now, doesn't that jar you? Who ever heard of Mexico's having any dignity to maintain?

Elkin has a curfew law. Col. Al Fairbrother's Everything wants curfew for Greensboro, but we suspect that a city of Greensboro's metropolitan propensities would soon kick at the cur in curfew.

Napoleon met his Waterloo 100 years ago yesterday. Bonaparte won a great deal of fame, but so far as we are concerned we prefer to live in our territory and keep on being up against a waterlulu all the time.

Richard Harding Davis is aiding the New York Tribune (Republican) in attacking Secretary Daniels. If he were aiding the Tribune in defending Mr. Daniels, everybody down this way would suspect the Secretary of having done something.

Some Southern paper has decided to publish no more of Colonel Bryan's statements. If that paper really has decided on such a policy, the balance of us are liable to get in a scoop on it most anyday. We'll venture that paper's chief competitor is not shedding any tears.

North Carolina has about 150 new doctors, and nobody will doubt that they will succeed. That is what they took a medical course for, and when a North Carolinian does that he starts out the very next day to get all the success that is coming to him. North Carolina is a great place on account of the success that every man can get if he will keep right on after it.

We think the country will agree with Secretary Daniels that the Government ought to have its own shipbuilding plant, whether it expects to construct all its ships or not. It should not necessarily mean competition for private ship yards, but it would mean that private builders could not take advantage of the government, as if they had a monopoly and were prepared to do so.

By the way, since Atlanta is the Baptist headquarters of the South, and it is a direct and quick trip from Atlanta to Wrightsville Beach; and since hundreds of Atlantans come to the South's leading seaside resort each summer, what's the matter with making the famous summer watering place the regular permanent summer recreation headquarters of the Southern Baptist Convention? Such an idea is not a mere pipe dream.

This ought to be a great week at Wrightsville Beach, owing to the fact that it is chautauqua week at our popular seaside resort. The Baptist Seaside Chautauqua will begin its first series of meetings tomorrow evening, and they will be kept up with both morning and night exercises every day until next Sunday. It will be a great opportunity for the people of the State to come here and join those of Wilmington in enjoying a notable occasion.

Judging from Charazo's threat to maintain the dignity of the Mexican nation, if President Wilson means to threaten it in any way, we have very little reason to hope that Villa's new provisional president can be depended upon to get Mexico on its feet again. Any man who talks through his hat to start with has not in him the elements that Mexico can depend upon for deliverence. President Wilson does not propose to do anything to Mexico. He wants to do something for Mexico and only wants the assistance of all Mexicans. If he has their enmity, he cannot help them to save their country from ruin.

BAPTIST SEASIDE CHAUTAUQUA

The Star notes with interest the inauguration of the North Carolina Baptist Seaside Chautauqua, the initial meeting of which is to be held tomorrow evening at Wrightsville Beach. The occasion is programmed for all of this week, and not only the people of Wilmington but those of the State have in it a rare opportunity to enjoy a splendid and inspirational entertainment, in addition to enjoying a visit to the seaside at this season of the year.

The modern chautauqua is becoming every year a greater factor in the educational, social and religious life of the American people. This class of attractions furnishes the highest class of entertainment. Those under the direction of religious bodies not only provide entertainment but give religious and spiritual uplift, hence they have a standard that meets general approval.

The Seaside Chautauqua is a new thing for Wrightsville Beach, and its programme for the week is of an elaborate and most interesting character. Those who get a glimpse at it will notice that every morning from 9 to 11:30 o'clock there will be a regular study in the various phases of religious instruction. At 11:30 a. m. and 8 p. m. each day there will be a choice musical programme, followed by a chautauqua address by some one of several of the leading lecturers of the South. Many distinguished men and women lecturers on special topics will come here from several states to feature this part of the programme, so that most of those who attend the chautauqua will have their first opportunity to hear them.

Let us hope that this will prove the auspicious inaugural of a permanent summer attraction at Wrightsville Beach, especially for Southern Baptists and for the public as well, such as the great Methodist gatherings at Asbury Park, N. J., have become for Methodists and all visitors who go there during the season. At Asbury Park the Methodists have their own great auditorium, and we would like to see this Baptist Chautauqua grow to be such a great institution that it will soon have its own great auditorium at our seaside.

That, it is generally understood, is contemplated by the promoters of the chautauqua and of the Baptist State Convention, under whose auspices it is being launched. It is the settled purpose of the convention, with a membership of more than a quarter million, to establish a permanent summer chautauqua and assembly place, for religious, recreative and inspirational purposes at some point on the North Carolina coast, or else unite with the Baptists of Virginia or South Carolina in establishing such an institution at one of the beaches in those states. Wrightsville Beach was the first choice as a location and the chautauqua there this week is in a certain measure an experiment, the perpetuity of the enterprise as an annual attraction at this seaside resort, therefore, depending very largely upon the encouragement and support accorded it by the city of Wilmington and the Beach interests. Wherever the Chautauqua locates as a permanent home, it is proposed as early as practicable to erect an adequate auditorium or pavilion, somewhat similar to that of the Virginia Baptists at Virginia Beach, where 900 season tickets have been sold for the chautauqua this year, attracting a particularly desirable class of visitors from all over the state of Virginia and from other states.

Wrightsville Beach has become the South's greatest summer resort and the chautauqua is well calculated to increase its popularity and atractiveness. Such meetings as that to begin tomorrow evening ought to be heartily encouraged by our city. They will greatly add to the attractions of the Beach for a great many people who do not come for the general features of recreation and amusement so peculiar to seashore resorts.

There is behind this meeting the approval of a great denomination 260,000 strong in our State, and the cooperation which the chautauqua shall receive from Wilmington people generally will largely determine the perpetuity of these gatherings as a seaside attraction each summer. For it to become an annual event would mean much to this city and the South's most popular summer recreation ground and pleasure resort.

A FEATHER ON THE GALE.

The Washington government is "perplexed," according to a dispatch in yesterday's Star, because United States mail for Sweden has been broken open in England. Sealed pouches en route from the United States to Scandinavia it is charged, have been opened, letter mail opened and read and censored or detained and probably destroyed.

This incident has nothing in it to perplex the government and it will soon pass. In times of peace it would constitute an outrage. During war times it becomes a mere incident that is annoying, but without remedy. A state of war now exists, consequently the United States cannot guarantee the safe passage of its mails through England, Germany, France, Austria, Italy or Turkey. There can be no safeguard around mails going through a war zone or belligerent territory.

A little reason applied to the incident is all that will be necessary to make Sweden's complaint a mere matter of form. Neither England nor Germany would surrender their right to censor mails passing through their territory, even though they come from neutral countries. Were such mails inviolate, enemy representatives in neutral countries could send all sorts of vital information through any enemy country.

Of course, that would be unpermissible if not absurd. When we put on our war spectacles and look at it from an English or German standpoint, we are compelled to recognize the fact that belligerent countries could not afford to permit their enemies to send information through their territory. Otherwise, the Allies could locate their representatives in Sweden and send mail through Germany to Switzerland and thence to their Italian allies.

That is one thing we need not expect any belligerent to permit, so reason compels us to acknowledge the right of all of them to censor mail as well as telegraph communication passing through their hands or domains. These incidentals to war are tough on neutrals, of course, but they are not nearly so tough as war is on belligerents.

We should worry! The United States would not permit European mails to pass through American territory to any country with which we might be at war. The incident makes a good newspaper item, but it has no chance of being regarded as of serious international importance. Germany surely would rightly seize American mails passing through Germany with possible information for Russia or other enemy countries.

Neutrals have to put up with lots of hard luck and even imposition during war among their friends, but it is good luck compared with their enormously and awfully hard luck in having a war on their hands. International courtesies have very poor standing while the war game is being played.

CONVERTING WOOD INTO EXPLOSIVES.

The British government probably will place wood fibre on the list of contraband. The government has been informed that the Germans are making gun cotton and other explosives from wood fibre and excelsior, and are even utilizing log imports for making these materials and then converting the fibre so obtained into munitions for their big guns.

The Germans are exceedingly resourceful enemies. If they cannot get American cotton with which to make explosives, they make "wood cotton", which is probably just as good, since it is the fibre that is prerequisite for explosive quantities. Since there can be no doubt that guncotton can be made from wood fibre, we would not be at all surprised to see it put on the contraband list along with cotton.

Old rags, either cotton or wool, can be converted into pulp and manufactured into guncotton. The Germans are bound to have explosives, and if their wood fibre supply from the United States is cut off, they will have to rely on the forests of their own country, if Norway, Sweden and Denmark cannot be drawn upon for all they may need. No doubt the Scandinavian countries will find a way to do a big wood fibre business with Germany.

This is a war of science as well as of wits and physical factors, including "gun fodder," as men were regarded by Napoleon. Man in his angry moods is utilizing all the elements of nature and the discoveries of civilization to aid him in carrying on war, the undisputed relic of barbarism. The contending hosts engaged in destroying each other are using the land, the sea and the cky for their hostile purposes. They make use of air, ether, chemicals, metals, clay, etc., and practically every known manufacture and all discoveries in their efforts and determination to wreck the manhood arrayed in deadly strife.

Man lays his hand on what God made and what man makes in order to destroy God's noblest creation, man himself. Man is yet groping in darkness and error when he finds himself still relying upon barbarism instead of wisdom for a solution of his difficulties. Man's passion and brute force is far greater than his wisdom, and an ill-tempered, intemperate, rabid press shows how little of it hovers around in American newspaper shops.

DIVERSIFIED INDUSTRIES

One reason why a city should have diversified industries is that when war or other disaster comes, it is not possible to hit them all in a bunch. Some may be detrimentally affected while others would not feel the effect but rather be helped in some instances. A one-industry town or a one-crop country is simply paralyzed when its one line of industries or its one crop is a failure at any time or under any circumstances.

In some of the large manufacturing cities of the North, the war in Europe affected many industries adversely and boomed others, illustrating exactly the point that we make. A city which has commerce, manufacturing and other industries is fortunate when some of them are left running while others are closed.

When a city becomes such a manufacturing center that its people can boast about it, you may know that city is growing and prospering. We ought to refuse to become interested in anything outside of Wilmington until we make this an industrial city with hundreds of payrolls. We seem to realize the importance of this, but we must go to work as if we were determined to make Wilmington what it ought to be.

Colonel Bryan keeps on saying he is for President Wilson. Inasmuch as that makes it unanimous, why should the balance of us imagine that it is about all we can do to keep the Colonel from rocking the boat? Colonel Bryan is now about to become one of our fellow North Carolinians. He is soon to move to a lovely home at Asheville. Before leaving Washington, President Wilson called at his home there and bade him adieu and it was all he could do to keep from coming with Colonel Bryan to this great Wilson stronghold.

CURRENT COMMENT.

"A great many Progressives have gotten tired standing at Armageddon just to keep Colonel Roosevelt and Mr. Perkins from being lonesome."—Wilmington Star. Wonder why some of those folks at Armageddon don't sit down.—Jacksonville Times-Union.

If Charity and Children has it right then it is good news. That paper says: "It is rumored around that Doctor Vardell of the Flora Macdonald College has returned from New York with the hope in his heart that the endowment fund of that college will not be $500,000 but $2,000,000."—Raleigh News and Observer.

Richard Harding Davis is trying to help The Tribune knife Mr. Daniels and to that end he has submitted some "facts" which he has gathered about the Secretary of the Navy. If Mr. Davis' other statements are no more accurate than the one which alleges that Mr. Daniels used to be editor of the "Charleston News and Observer," there's no special reason why Josephus should worry.—Charleston News and Courier.

One familiar figure that will be missed in the hotel at Morehead the present season and for seasons to come will be that of Governor Jarvis. He has been a fixture at Morehead since 1890, when the hotel was built there. It formerly stood at Beaufort, but was swept away in a storm the previous year, Governor Jarvis being in it at the time, but making his escape in safety. Since then Governor Jarvis had spent each summer at Morehead with the exception of the time he was located in Brazil as United States Minister. The editors of the North Carolina Press Association who attended the convention at Morehead in 1912 found much entertainment and profit in conversation with Governor Jarvis, and the association as a body accorded him every honor within its power.—Charlotte Observer.

MR. JOSHUA SMITH DEAD

Prominent Citizen of Columbus County Passes Away.

(Special Star Correspondence.)

Whiteville, N. C., June 19.—Just as the sun was rising this morning, the spirit of Joshua Smith took its flight into the Great Eternity. The funeral will be held Sunday morning and the remains will be laid to rest in Whiteville cemetery.

Mr. Smith was born near Whiteville in April, 1846, being in his 70th year at the time of his death. He was ever active in the progress and upbuilding of Columbus county. For four years he served as register of deeds and later was chairman of the board of county commissioners. He was for a number of years engaged in the mercantile and naval stores business near Vineland.

Loyal to the call of his country, though young at the time, he served in the Confederate navy and was captured at Charleston and imprisoned on Governor's Island. Mr. Smith was a firm believer in God, and early in life connected himself with the Methodist church. He was a man of unstinting hospitality, ever ready to lend a helping hand to his fellow man. He had hosts of friends in his own county and within and beyond the borders of his native State.

Mr. Smith first married Miss Lucy McKay, who died in 1907. He again married in 1908, his second wife being Mrs. Annice Carter. She survives him. He is survived also by three children, Mr. Charles Smith, of Richmond, Va.; Mrs. J. B. Schulken and Mrs. P. H. Sears, of Whiteville.

LOCATES AT FAISON.

Dr. L. Hicks Williams Made Fine Record Before State Medical Board.

Dr. L. Hicks Williams, of Faison, who recently passed the State Medical Board, has declined a flattering offer from the Polyclinic hospital to locate at his old home. His many friends have been gratified to learn that he stood second highest in the long line of applicants with an average of 93.78. He is an honor graduate of Horner's school, a graduate of the University of North Carolina and of the medical department of Johns Hopkins of Baltimore, where he won a scholarship last year.

Dr. Williams is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Marshall Williams, of Faison, and has many warm friends in Wilmington. He will take up at once the practice once held so faithfully and well by the late Dr. John M. Faison.

The highest average before the State board was made by Dr. Jas. S. Simmons, of Graham, with an average of 93.85 and Dr. Williams was a close second. The general average of the latter was so near the highest that there was practically no difference.

Recorder's Court.

Before Recorder Empie yesterday were the following cases: Annie King and Lizzie Dale, colored, affray, taxed with one-half the costs each and on their inability to pay were sent to the county farm for 15 days. Joe Hines, white, for violating the speed law, was taxed with the costs.

Only 5% PLUS for the Best "Non-Skid"

PRACTICALLY all Non-Skid Tires that make serious claims to non-skid efficiency cost you 10% to 30% more than Plain Tread Tires of same brand and material.

Goodrich Safety Tread Tires cost you only 5% more than our plain tread tires.

Here's how and Why!

o o o

FORTY-FIVE years of Rubber working (in what is now the World's largest Rubber Factory) has taught us a few Kinks and Short-cuts that are not common to the Trade.

One of these now comes to the help of your Pocket-book.

Through the simple process of Thinking Hard (and being Candid with ourselves) we have found a Short-Cut to make the best Safety Tread ever put on a Tire cost us only about 5% more than it costs to make the Plain-Tread of similar quality.

Goodrich Safety Tread Tires cost you only 5% more than our own or any other plain tread tires.

Note the following table of comparative prices on non-skid tires. Columns headed "A," "B," "C" and "D" represent four highly advertised tires:

Size	Goodrich Safety Tread	OTHER MAKES
		"A"	"B"	"C"	"D"
30 x 3	$9.45	$10.55	$10.95	$16.35	$18.10
30 x 3½	12.20	13.35	14.20	21.70	23.60
32 x 3½	14.00	15.40	16.30	22.85	26.30
34 x 4	20.35	22.30	23.80	31.15	33.85

By testing out these Goodrich Safety-Tread Tires on a large number of Taxicabs (where they could be competitively observed and carefully checked up at the end of each day's use) and by comparing their actual performance with that of our own, and other Plain-Treads, of much higher price, we have had this fact forced upon us—

Viz:

—That there is SURPRISINGLY more Mileage, in Goodrich Safety Tread Tires, than in our own, or any other, make of Plain-Tread Tires.

So MUCH more Mileage, for only 5% more Cost looked so good to us that we decided to give Car Owners the benefit.

Here's what we now offer you!

The best Non-Skid Safety Tread ever put on the market, and it costs you only 5% more than our best plain tread tire.

Face Eruptions Have Deep Significance

Often They Indicate Impurities Deep in the Tissues.

The results shown by S. S. S. in clearing the skin reveal how searchingly and how deeply this famous blood purifier attacks blood troubles. Facial eruptions are more often significant of impaired nutrition resulting from faulty elimination of body wastes.

Most people realize this to be true. And yet it is a difficult matter to convince such people they should avoid those harmful drugs such as mercury, iodide of potash, arsenic and so on. S. S. S. gives just as good effect without the destructive results, because it is more searching. It goes deeply into the circulation wherever the blood flows, but it does not remain to clog the system. And its effect is complete and thorough as indicated by blood tests. One of the strange things today is that so many people are wedded to the notion that mercury is the one antidote. It is not so. There is in S. S. S. a product of nature that is rated one of the most potent principles known for the complete elimination of blood troubles.

Wherever you go there are people who know this to be true from their own experience, for it has been clearly shown there is one ingredient in S. S. S. as essential to health if the blood be impure as the nourishing elements of the grains, sugars and salts of our daily food. Get a bottle of S. S. S. today of any druggist, but insist upon S. S. S., accept no substitute. And if your case is peculiar or of long standing, write to the Medical Adviser, The Swift Specific Co., 101 Swift Bldg., Atlanta, Ga.

SEASIDE CHAUTAUQUA BEGINS MONDAY NIGHT

Secretary E. L. Middleton Here Arranging Details.

First Attempt of Baptists of North Carolina—Hoped to be Made Annual Affair—Ride Thursday. Opening Address.

The first Baptist Seaside Chaptauqua of North Carolina will be formally opened tomorrow night at the Oceanic Hotel, Wrightsville Beach, with an address by Rev. John E. White, D. D., pastor of Second Baptist church, Atlanta, Ga., under the auspices of the Baptist State Convention. All arrangements have been completed and at least a thousand people are expected to attend. Mr. E. L. Middleton, of Raleigh, secretary of the Chautauqua committee of the Convention, arrived here yesterday morning and is putting the last finishing touches on arranging details, and expects to have everything in readiness for a good opening.

Wilmington has played her part well and the only thing lacking is to dispose of all the season tickets. Everyone who hasn't yet bought a ticket is requested to phone 1356, or see a representative on the streets.

Through the courtesy of Captain Harper, a boat ride will be given all holders of season tickets Thursday, announcements of hour to be made later.

The list of speakers for the chautauqua is as follows:

Lincoln Hulley, Litt. D., LL.D., president John B. Stetson University, DeLand, Fla.

John E. White, D. D., pastor Second Baptist church, Atlanta, Ga.

B. D. Grady, D. D., LL.D., corresponding secretary Home Mission Board Southern Baptist Convention, Atlanta, Ga.

H. W. Spilman, D. D., field secretary Sunday School Board Southern Baptist Convention, Kinston, N. C.

W. Powell Hale, lecturer and impersonator, Jefferson City, Tenn.

W. J. McGlothlin, D. D., LL.D., professor of church history, Southern Baptist Theological Seminary, Louisville, Ky.

Rev. John E. White, D. D.

The principal address of the first session of the Baptist Seaside Chautauqua Monday night will be delivered by Dr. John E. White on the subject, "Our Greatest Asset." Dr. White, who is a native of North Carolina and years ago served leading pastorates in this State, is recognized as one of the leading pulpit orators of the South. For a long term of years he has been pastor of the Second Baptist church, of Atlanta.

TO HELP PLAYGROUND FUND

Little Winifred Stoner is Going to Teach Esperanto and Give Proceeds to Worthy Cause.

Little Winifred Sackville Stoner, concerning whose education two interesting articles appear in the July number of McClure's and The Ladies' World, is eager to help make the land offered by Uncle Sam to Wilmington become a real playground.

She is so delighted with her home in Wilmington that she does not wish to go away for a summer trip and being accustomed to an active public life she is not content to eat, sleep, read, swim and motor (occupations which some people consider suitable employment for a summer vacation). Instead, she wishes to occupy at least one hour each day working to raise money for the playgrounds while teaching Esperanto, the peace tongue, and giving talks on how to use "The Book of Knowledge," which helped her to pass her college entrance examinations when she was but nine years of age.

Uncle Sam has promised to put down a beautiful asphalt pavement along the whole side of the government reservation just as soon as the City Fathers have time to grade the street and with this fine pavement and a number of gifts already promised to the playground association Winifred expects to see within the coming year a playground of which any city could be proud. She even dreams that money can be raised so that concerts will be given on these grounds at least once each week, while there will be story telling, and instruction in folk dancing, useful arts and games to develop muscles of kiddies who can defy the wicked hookworms, long their dreaded foe.

The classes for instruction in Esperanto and The Book of Knowledge will be held for two weeks each afternoon on the United States Marine Reservation from 5 until 6 o'clock. Children and grown-ups are invited to join. The price for instruction will be but 25 cents. Those who attend regularly will be able to carry on a conversation in Esperanto, sing songs in this international medium of communication and gather much interesting information of a general nature from "The Book of Knowledge" within the two weeks' course. Through learning Esperanto the students will gain an insight into Spanish, which may become the popular language of this country.

All interested in this course should 'phone Winifred Stoner at the United States Marine Hospital and gain further information.

BIJOU ANNOUNCES PRIZES.

To be Given in California-Canadian Contest.

Elsewhere in today's Star the Bijou announces a complete list of the prizes thus far offered in their California-Canadian Popularity contest, consisting of a first, second and third prize, together with three auxiliary prizes to go to first prize winner.

The contest is now getting at fever heat, and the rivalry between the different ladies entering in the race grows stronger and more tense every day. The manager stated yesterday that the results of the contest in every way was exceeding all expectations, and the interest that has been shown by Wilmington business men is indeed gratifying.

ORDER HOSPITAL EQUIPMENT

Order Sent Off Last Night—Finance Committee Actively Soliciting Funds.

That the Bear annex to the James Walker Memorial Hospital will be used as a hospital in which to care for sick babies this summer is assured. An orde rwas sent off last night for equipment and supplies. The work of getting up sufficient capital with which to operate it this summer was immediately started. About a week ago it was announced that the Bear annex to the James Walker Memorial hospital had been secured and last night sufficient money had been promised to assure the use this summer of the annex for the treatment of sick babies.

A committee composed of Dr. C. T. Pridgen, Mr. W. B. Cooper, Mrs. J. M. Solky, Miss Margaret Gibson and Mrs. G. H. Croom has been canvassing for funds. Mrs. Croom is the secretary, but any member will receive donations. Donations of cribs, with springs and mattresses, sheeting by the piece, towels as well as money will be gladly received.

One thousand dollars has already been subscribed and it will take about $2,000 more. The following is a list of those who have contributed:

Mrs C. H. Fore—Crib and mattress.

Mrs. John D. Bellamy—Crib and mattress.

Mrs. R. H. Solomon—Crib and mattress.

Mr H. F. Payre—Crib and springs.

The following is the pledge being signed by those who contribute to the fund:

"Having in mind the death rate of infants in this city and believing that a large per cent. of it is due to financial inability to properly care for infants in the home, and with the humane desire to help these infants in their battle for life and strength, we hereby subscribe the amounts opposite our names, agreeing to pay same when called for, to be used for the care of these unfortunate babies under the following conditions:

"The funds to be in charge of the committee duly appointed by a public mass meeting of citizens and the management of the work to be in their hands. The funds to be used in supplying equipment to care for the babies, for food medicine and nurses, and such incidentals only.

"That no one man or set of men nor any institution shall control or direct the treatment but that any baby may be placed in the institution and be treated by its own physician whom the family may select.

"That a competent head nurse who is especially trained in care of babies shall be in charge and responsible only to the committee.

"That all possible means will be supplied to give the greatest possible help to the babies, to avoid any friction and to have full and free co-operation of the medical profession and the public."

WILL GET FILM OF THE N. C. PRESS ASSOCIATION.

North Carolina Editors to Appear in Animated Weekly.

The Universal Animated Weekly will have a representative at Montreat during the meeting of the North and South Carolina Press Associations June 30, July 1 and 2, to make films of the editors. This representative will also make several still pictures for the New York World. This will be the first meeting of the Press Association that has ever been "filmed." Every editor present will get "a trip around the world" free, which is about the only way they will be able to get it, no doubt.

SIX CARRIER PIGEONS

Six carrier pigeons were received Friday night by Postmaster H. McL. Green from Mr. G. W. Beddell, a Fort Carbon, Pa., fancier, Mr. Green will liberate the pigeons this morning and it is expected that they will reach Ft. Carbon by 9 o'clock tonight, a distance of 500 or 600 miles. This is the third shipment Mr. Green has received from Fort Carbon. All the birds of the previous shipments reached home safe except one that was shot and wounded by a hunter, which made its way to Charlotte.

WINNERS IN CASTING EVENT

Good Records Made in Contest at Wrightsville Beach Yesterday Afternoon by Local Anglers.

Local anglers made good records in the casting contest conducted at Lumina, Wrightsville Beach, yesterday afternoon under the auspices of the Topsail Inlet Fishing Club. There were a number of interested spectators.

In the preliminary event Mr. A. J. Mitchell made the best record with a cast of 214 feet, 6 inches, winning the prize of six four-ounce sinkers. This event was nearly broken up by the appearance on the beach of several bathers in dazzling costumes which attracted the attention of the contestants to such an extent that they failed to do their best.

There were three classes, the first being for the total of five casts made, the second for the total of three casts and the third for the total of two casts made. First, second and third prizes were given in each class.

The winners, the casts made and the prizes for each event are as follows:

First class—Mr. A. J. Mitchell, 1,078 feet, 15-thread Joe Jefferson line; R. R. Bridgers, 1,077 feet, 3 inches, 15-thread original cuttyhunk line; B. H. Bridgers, 945 feet, 5 inches, four 4-ounce sinkers and two round trip tickets to beach.

Second class—Theodore Empie, 217 feet, 11 inches, 15-thread Joe Jefferson line; G. H. Bunker, 207 feet, 7 inches, 15-thread original Cuttyhunk line; W. W. Turner, 205 feet, 10 inches, two 4-ounce sinkers and one round trip ticket to the beach.

Third class—D. H. Barnett, 105 feet, 3 inches, 15-thread Joe Jefferson line; W. J. Swails, 171 feet, two round trip tickets to the beach; T. P. Lovering, 145 feet, one round trip ticket to the beach.

In the accuracy contest, which consisted of three casts at a stake, 140 feet distant, the nearest cast to win, Mr. W. J. Swails came within five feet and ten inches of the mark and was awarded the prize of 200 yards original cuttyhunk line.

R. R. Bridgers made the longest cast in the contest, his cast being for 236 feet and six inches.

Mr. W. F. Toms in the second event got busy catching drum and caused the contestants to get somewhat jealous on account of the ease with which he seemed to bring them in. He did most of his fishing from the casting platform in order to be in easy reach.

DR. FOSTER IN GEORGIA

Dr. J. H. Foster, formerly pastor of the First Baptist church of this city, now president of Bessie Tift College at Forsyth, Ga., was inaugurated to his new duties with much applause. Dr. Foster is well known to many of the leading men in Georgia and they were glad to welcome him back to that State.

Among his distinguished old friends was Dr. W. L. Pickard, president of Mercer university, of Macon, Ga. At the inauguration Dr. Pickard paid the following tribute to the former Wilmington minister: "I was a classmate of J. H. Foster and I know him through and through. Whether pastor at Howard College at Birmingham, or 15 years between Anniston and the First Baptist church in Wilmington, he has made a signal success of everything he has ever touched. His wide culture, his lofty mentality, his vital religion and unusual poise and judgment will make him complete master of the situation. And for his wife—well words fail me—she is a veritable queen without a crown. Together they will lead Bessie Tift College to the greatest era of prosperity that this superb institution has ever known."

From Georgia newspaper reports Dr. Foster fairly electrified his audience with his fine personality and remarkable culture, added to his eloquence and understanding of their situation. His reference to Bessie Tift was: "I am surprised and delighted, almost amazed, at what I find Bessie Tift. It is positively the best equipped college for women that I have ever seen in the South. The great brick dormitories, Tift Hall, and Addie Upshaw Hall, the commodious cottages, the Jersey herd, the fascinating campus, the rich and enriching library, with all modern equipment for music, art and science—but above all the wonderful college spirit with its vital formative influence in molding sensible, unselfish Christian womanhood—these, all these, make me rejoice, even more than I had imagined, in laying my all on the altar of a greater Bessie Tift and the redeemed and redeeming womanhood of the future."

Dr. Foster has taken up his work actively and his friends in Wilmington wish him Godspeed and a grand success in his new work.

WINS AUTO IN CONTEST

Mrs. W. H. Peden, of Rocky Point, is Awarded Automobile.

Mrs. W. H. Peden, of Rocky Point, mother of Miss Mattie Peden, of this city, was the winner of the automobile in the contest conducted by the Chronicle, of Burgaw. The votes were counted last night and Mrs. Peden was found to have a large majority over the three other contestants.

Mrs. Peden has many friends in Wilmington, where she has visited frequently, who will congratulate her on having won the machine which is a 1915 model Ford. The contest was a spirited one but Mrs. Peden's friends came to her aid in a most enthusiastic manner with the result that she went far ahead of the other contestants.

East Wilmington Defeats A. C. L.

In a fast and interesting game of baseball yesterday the East Wilmington team won from A. C. L. by a score of 13 to 1. This being the last in a series of four games between the two teams in which East Wilmington won three, the E. W. boys feel rather proud and ask challenges from any team in the city. Write C. H. Miller, Wilmington, N. C., R. F. D. No. 1.

Treated With Tarvia.

The turnpike from Delgado to Winter Park was treated yesterday with Tarvia. Also the Market Street road through the city of Wilmington, will be treated Monday and Tuesday. It will be a few days before it will be safe to travel these roads, but when the Tarvia is dried, New Hanover will be better equipped with good and substantial roads.

ROAD CONTRACT AWARDED.

Northwest Commissioners Make Award to B. L. Daniels, of Bolton.

The road commissioners of Northwest township, Brunswick county, of which Mr. A. S. Kirby, of Phoenix, is chairman, met on Friday and awarded the contract for the building of a 15-mile sand-clay road through the township, from Brunswick river bridge, adjoining New Hanover, to the Columbus county line, near Acme, N. C., this being the third project for road improvement in Brunswick put under way in 60 days.

The award went to B. L. Daniels, of Bolton, among several bidders, the price being $756.86 per mile for a 30-foot road with a 16-foot crown, all necessary drainage, etc., but not including bridges, which will be built independently. The work will begin about July 1st and will be completed within eight months under the terms of the contract.

The building of this road will be another link in the proposed Charlotte to Wilmington highway, Columbus county having done her part and Robeson recently having made a fill of the Lumber river swamps, just beyond Boardman. If New Hanover will now come to time with its free-ferry proposition, the travel from up-State over this highway will equal the interurban travel between the Piedmont cities of the State.

BOATING PARTY GIVEN IN HONOR OF MISS SHELLY.

A delightful boating party was given yesterday afternoon complimentary to Miss Shelly, of Pittsburg, Pa., who is visiting Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Yarborough at the Carolina Apartments. A run was made up the Northeast river and then down the river towards Southport. The genial "skipper" and host, Mr. Louis Hanson, Jr., left nothing undone to make the occasion an enjoyable one.

On the return from the Northeast river the yacht came alongside her wharf and some of her ballast was removed. Towards sunset supper was served. Music was next in order, but the boat's Victrola was not only greatly enjoyed but the local talent also rendered several selections. Everything went well until nearing the home stop when one of the gentlemen rendered a solo and was interrupted with "He's a Jolly Good Fellow," by the party.

MR. CONKLIN RETURNS FROM MONTGOMERY WITH BRIDE

The following is taken from last Sunday's Montgomery (Ala.) Advertiser:

"A marriage of cordial interest to friends throughout Alabama is that of Mr. Harold R. Conklin and Miss Lucy Chaffee, which was quietly solemnized Saturday afternoon at the Church of the Ascension. The bride was lovely in a coat suit of blue cloth with hat to match. The ceremony was performed by Rev. F. duM. Devall.

"Immediately afterwards Mr. and Mrs. Conklin left for Wilmington, N. C., where they will make their home, and where Mr. Conklin has accepted a splendid position with the railroad.

"The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. P. Chaffee and has grown to young womanhood in Montgomery. She is a girl of many fine traits of character and by her sweet, gentle nature has endeared herself to a large circle of friends who extend best wishes for her happiness. She is one of Montgomery's most graceful and talented dancers.

"Mr. Conklin has resided in Montgomery but a short time, but has made many friends who extend to him sincere congratulations."

Mr. and Mrs. Conklin have taken Mr. A. W. Pate's apartment for the summer and are at home, No. 510 South Third street.

REV. N. McDIARMID MARRIES MISS KATHARYNE E. NEWTON

Rose Hill, N. C., June 19.—On Tuesday evening, June 15, at 7:45 o'clock, Mt. Zion Presbyterian church at Rose Hill, artistically decorated with ferns and wisteria vines and illumined by the soft light of candles, was the scene of a beautiful and impressive wedding, when Miss Katharyne Elizabeth Newton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. B. Newton, became the bride of Rev. Hector N. McDiarmid, Rev. W. P. M. Currie, the bride's pastor, officiating.

The only ornament the bride wore was a brooch of pearls, the gift of the groom. The attendants wore lovely pins with their names engraved upon them. These were souvenir favor gifts of the bride and groom.

The attendants were Miss Emma Newton, sister of the bride, maid of honor; Mr. N. McL. McDiarmid, brother of the groom, best man; Miss Hazel Newton with Rev. Carl B. Craig, and Miss Ethel Southerland with Dr. H. McK. McDiarmid. The ushers were Messrs. Norman Farrior and S. Alfonso Newton.

The out-of-town guests were Misses Kate McDiarmid, Ethel McNeill, Dr. H. McK. McDiarmid and Mr. L. McL. McDiarmid, Raeford; Rev. Carl B. Craig, Messrs. Alex. S. Alfonso and Miss Hazel Newton, Wilmington; Mr. J. Sprunt Newton, Fayetteville; Misses Anna Carr, Pattie Southerland and Mrs. L. L. Farrow, Wallace; Miss Lydia Southerland and Mrs. Martha Newbury, Magnolia; Rev. and Mrs. T. W. Lee, Kenansville, and Misses Edna and Polly McMillan, Teachey.

Immediately after the ceremony the bride and groom left on the Northbound train on their wedding tour. After July 1 they will be at home in Rocky Mount.

The popularity of this young couple was amply attested by many beautiful presents, and their host of friends wish them a long and happy wedded life.

MISS RUTH ALFORD BRIDE OF MR. J. F. BULLOCK, ROWLAND

Rowland, N. C., June 19.—On Tuesday afternoon of this week Ashpole Presbyterian church was the scene of a very pretty wedding when Miss Ruth Alford became the bride of Mr. J. F. Bullock, both of this place. The church had been very prettily and tastefully decorated with ferns and dahlias.

Before the ceremony Miss Sallie McLeod sang in her usual pleasing manner "I Love You Always," accompanied by Mrs. J. McR. Bracy. Following this, to the strains of Lohengrin's processional, the bridal party entered in the following order: Messrs. McL. Reedy and Brown McCallum from the right aisle and Hugh Alford and Walter McLeod from the left aisle. Then came Miss Ola McGregor with Mr. Ralph McGirt, Miss Jessie Alford with Mr. A. E. Watson, Miss Flora McLeod with Mr. Robert Monroe, Miss Annie Bullock with Mr. Carl Alford, Miss Belle Bullock with Mr. Winfred Carter, Miss Alexa Alford with Mr. Jack Ward. Next came the dainty little flower girls, Betty Boney, of Wilmington, with Bettie Boney, of Wallace, from the right aisle, and Mary Mills with Mary Louise McCormick from the left aisle, carrying green and white baskets of sweet peas. The groom entered with his best man, Mr. Douglass Bullock, his brother; the lovely bride gowned in white crepe de chine carrying bride's roses and wearing an Oriental veil entered with her sister, Miss Vietta Alford as maid of honor. The latter wore a handsome gown of green crepe de chine and carried pink roses. The bridesmaids were daintily dressed in simple white voile dresses with shined skirts and green messaline boleros.

Rev. H. J. Mills, pastor of the church, very impressively performed the ceremony. As the last words of the ceremony were spoken the group about the altar passed two by two down the aisle to the strains of Mendelssohn's recessional wedding march.

The bride, who is the daughter of Mr. Alex Alford, has endeared herself to all who know her. Charming in manner, pleasing in personal appearance, and of a winning disposition, she has a host of friends who wish for her much joy.

The groom who is associated with his father in farming and mercantile interests, is a very capable man.

Mr. and Mrs. Bullock went to Laurinburg and left on the Seaboard train for the mountains of Western North Carolina and will be at home at Rowland after June 22.

PERSONAL PARAGRAPHS.

—Mr. J. R. Hunt left this morning for Goldsboro, where he will spend a week.

—Mr. A. E. Curl, of Currie, was a Wilmington visitor yesterday and called at The Star office.

—Mr. W. V. Mitchell, the clever stamp clerk in the Wilmington postoffice for some time, has been transferred to Asheville and leaves today to accept his new position.

—Rev. M. O. Alexander, who was recently commissioned as a chaplain in the navy, has received orders to report at Norfolk Tuesday and will leave Wilmington Monday night.

—Rev. Thomas McM. Grant, of Sunbury, arrived yesterday to spend some time here with his brother, L. Clayton Grant, Esq. Mr. Grant formerly lived in Wilmington and his many friends here welcome him back.

—Mr. J. Fred Russ returned yesterday from a trip out West, having stopped at St. Louis, and some other Western places. Mr. Russ reports that conditions out West are not any better than they are here, in fact he says, that conditions here are much better than in many places out West. Mr. Russ says that Wilmington is "The Garden Spot" and that it is good enough for him.

WRIGHTSVILLE BEACH

Mrs. J. T. Poe has moved to his tent near Lumina for the summer.

Mr. and Mrs. Rob Neely, of Augusta, Ga., have arrived at the beach.

Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Bridger, of Bladenboro, are guests at the Seashore Hotel.

Mrs. James Moore, of Atkinson, has moved to her cottage on the Northern extension.

Mr. A. L. Howard caught a fine drum yesterday afternoon at the beach, measuring three feet and eight inches and weighing 28 1-2 pounds.

Fishermen out for the sport caught five drums yesterday in front of the Oceanic Hotel weighing from 25 to 40 pounds each.

There will be a musical concert at the Seashore Hotel today from 12 to 2 o'clock. An excellent and entertaining programme has been arranged.

While the bankers were at the beach Captain Oscar Salter, in charge of the Seashore fishing fleet, has been kept busy waiting upon them. Some splendid catches were made.

Yesterday's Charlotte Observer: "Miss Cora Annette Harris will leave this morning for Wrightsville Beach to spend the week-end with Mr. and Mrs. James P. Harris, the latter her brother."

The big turtle that was caught at Wrightsville Beach Friday was butchered yesterday by the chef of the Oceanic Hotel and, greatly surprising many, contained 765 eggs, all large and nice.

Yesterday's Charlotte Observer: "The initial meeting of the Baptist Seaside Chautauqua will convene at Wrightsville Beach June 21-28. Mesdames C. E. Mason and E. L. Mason, of this city, will attend. The meeting promises to be a delightful one in every respect."

Guests at the Surfside for the week-end are Misses Maggie Murphy, Ruth Moore, Louise Moore and Minerva Moore, of Burgaw; Misses Margaret Baldwin and Alice Powell, of Whiteville, and Miss Bessie Hendey, of Wallace.

Mrs. T. P. Hinman, T. P. Hanman, Jr., and maid have arrived at the Seashore Hotel. Mrs. Hinman is the wife of the celebrated dentist, who is on the programme for the North Carolina Association, which meets at the Seashore Hotel this week. Dr. Hinman will arrive this week.

On account of being indisposed, Madame Van de Zande, the Belgian singer, was unable to give a concert at the Seashore Hotel last evening, as had been planned. She will sing at the hotel today from 12 to 1 o'clock and the public is cordially invited.

The hot weather has greatly increased the popularity of the surf bathing at the beach. Every afternoon a great many people at the beach indulge in this delightful pastime. Last Sunday about 300 bathers went in from Lumina and this record will probably be broken today, if the weather is favorable.

There was another large crowd at Lumina last night to attend the week-end dance. With the exception of the attendance on the previous night, at the dance given to the bankers, the crowd was probably the largest of any night so far this season. Visitors from the hotels and cottages were largely in evidence but there were also a great many people from Wilmington.

Attractive programmes have been arranged for the concert to be given at Lumina this afternoon and evening. The afternoon concert will take place at 4 o'clock and the night concert at 8:30. Both concerts will no doubt be largely attended by people from Wilmington as well as by the many visitors now staying at the beach. Besides the regular concerts the orchestra will play at Lumina from 11 to 12 in the morning. The programmes for the afternoon and night concerts are published in full in the advertising columns of The Star.

COOLEEMEE COTTAGE HAS LARGE NUMBER OF GUESTS

Cooleemee cottage, the Y. W. C. A. cottage at the beach, has all the guests it can accommodate for the week-end. Reservations for all available rooms have been made for this week for the accommodation of guests in attendance at the Baptist Seaside Chautauqua. Arrangements have been made to supply meals for 40 people during the week at 25 cents each.

Registrations are still coming in at the office and many young ladies are planning to spend their vacation at the cottage. Instruction in swimming will be given three times a week by Miss Troutt, the lessons being given at 5 p. m. on Wednesdays, Fridays and Saturdays.

Y. W. C. A. NOTES

There will be a called meeting of the building committee Monday afternoon at 5:30 o'clock.

Splendid progress has been made by the contractors in the erection of the new gymnasium and it is already more than half completed.

The tennis courts on the High School campus are being rolled and will soon be in readiness for playing. Application for balls and rackets should be made at the office of the association.

Teeth Fixed Free.

Applicants for license to practice dentistry, who will be examined at Wrightsville Beach this week, will give free service in local dental offices Wednesday.

The protest was the result of a play in the opening inning, when Umpire Johnstone permitted a Chicago player to go to the bench direct from third then score after a batter struck out with the bases filled and one out. The third strike had gotten away from Catcher Owens who recovered the ball and threw to third, the Chicago player running direct from the bench to the plate. He had gone to bench from the field under the impression that he was forced.

DEXTER TAKES GOLF TITLE FROM WHITNEY

Wins Championship of Southern Association.

The New Orleans Man Had Won the Championship Four Times and Held the Title Up to Date. Two Up in 36 Holes.

Atlanta, June 19.—C. L. Dexter, of Dallas, won the Southern golf championship from Nelson Whitney, of New Orleans, in the final round of the Southern Golf Association's 14th annual tournament here today, two up in 36 holes.

A gallery estimated at more than 2,000 persons followed the play and enjoyed every stage of the unusually close match. Whitney, cool, methodical, accurate, led his opponent for almost the entire distance, but the Texan showed his mettle by his determined up-hill fight and by his remarkable recoveries.

Only once during the morning round was Dexter less than one down. With the champion one up at the turn of the first nine, Dexter shot a perfect a three on the tenth for a win, one under par. Whitney again took the lead when he won the 13th and finished the first 18 holes one up.

When play was resumed in the afternoon the New Orleans man maintained his lead of one through the first four holes. He increased this to three up by taking the 23rd and 24th holes, but Dexter, after halving the 26th won the next two in order.

The real thrill and the turning point of the match came at the 33rd. One down, Dexter topped his drive and was in the high grass 60 yards from the tee, while Whitney was 250 yards straight down the course. The Texan pulled his second well into the woods, his opponent's long iron being a few yards short of the green. From an exceedingly difficult lie Dexter laid a cleek shot flag-high 15 feet from the cup. Whitney's putt was short as was Dexter's. The champion missed his fifth, and Dexter, sinking a 4-foot putt, squared the match for the second time. From that moment until the close of the match, Dexter played brilliantly.

Although the cards for both morning and afternoon rounds failed to show anything exceptional in the way of low medal scores, no championship final ever played in the South furnished more features of interest to the spectators, golf experts declared tonight. Whitney, four times Southern champion, made a determined fight to retain his title while Dexter's battle to overcome his opponent's lead proved that he is a worthy successor to the New Orleans player.

Rocky Point, N. C., June 19.—Burgaw came all the way to Rocky Point to get licked to the tune of 7 to 5. Sidbury had the visitors completely at his mercy all the way through, Burgaw taking advantage of a few errors to get all her runs. Johnson was hit freely throughout the game.

NOTICE OF SALE,

By Receivers of The Buell-Crocker Lumber Company.

By virtue of the authority vested in us under the terms of a decree of the Superior Court of New Hanover County, we will offer for sale to the highest bidder for cash, at Bannerman's Bridge, N. C., in Pender County, east of Burgaw, at 11 o'clock A. M., on the 20th day of July, A. D., 1915, the following described property, belonging to the Buell-Crocker Lumber Company, to-wit:

(1). "All of that certain tract or parcel of land situated in Pender County, conveyed by John R. Bannerman and wife to Frank Buell, on December 19th, 1909, by deed recorded in book 56, page 532, of the Records of Pender County, and more specifically described as follows, to-wit:

Adjoining the lands of Humphreys and others, beginning at a cypress on a cove near the Northeast River, Humphreys' corner, running thence North 56 East 62 poles and 14 links to a cypress in a slough; thence North 27 west 56 and 14 links to a pine on the brink of a hill; thence South 74 west 48 poles and 14 links to a stooping gum on Shelter Creek, and thence down Shelter Creek as follows; South 9 east 19 poles, south 31 east 32 poles; north 79 west 14 poles; south 48 west 38 poles; south 47 east 32 poles to the Northeast river, thence down the river to Humphrey's line on the south side of a field; thence with Humphrey's line North 11 west to the first station, containing 35-58 acres, more or less."

Together with the mill plant and all the machinery, boilers, engines, belting, shafting, sheds, buildings, dry-kilns and other fixtures connected with said mill plant and necessary for the operation thereof."

(2). "All that certain line of lumber tram-way beginning on the Northeast branch of the Cape Fear River at or near Bannerman's Bridge and running generally eastwardly therefrom in Pender County and Duplin county consisting of about thirty-five and sixty-one hundredths (35.60) miles of twenty-five (25) pound and thirty (30) pound rail, and two miles of Twenty (20) pound iron rail, including all the rights of way either on the main line or branches thereof, all iron rails laid or loose on the main lines or branches thereof, all switches, cross-ties, bolts, fish plates, spikes, and road-way; also including all the railroad rights of way, cross-ties, iron rails, laid or loose, and all other material heretofore connected with the tram-way of the Holly Shelter Railroad Company, or belonging to said railroad company, and all other material pertaining to either and all of the said tram-ways; also fifty-seven (57) kegs of rails and spikes, eleven (11) kegs of railroad bolts and five hundred and sixty (560) pairs of railroad fish plates; also two ordinary locomotives, one big locomotive, in all three locomotives, two Parker skidders, pumps and water tanks and forty (40) logging cars; all of which said material is located in one or the other of said counties of Pender or Duplin, being the same conveyed by the said Cape Fear Lumber Company to the said party of the first part, by bill of sale dated 6th day of January, 1910, and intended to be recorded in said counties with this mortgage."

The above description covers such property described as was owned by Frank Buell on the 6th day of January, 1910, and will be pointed out to the purchaser on the day of the sale.

(3). All those twenty-nine tracts of timber including rights of way, timber rights and other privileges, described in a certain mortgage deed from Frank Buell to the Cape Fear Lumber Company, of date January 6th, 1910, and recorded in book 65 page 367 of the records of Pender County, and also described in a deed from Frank Buell to the Buell-Crocker Lumber Company of date January 16th, 1910, by deed recorded in book 72, at page 343, of the Records of Pender County, which is referred to for a more definite description.

(4). Sixteen logging cars purchased from the Smith Kilby Company, now owned by the Buell-Crocker Lumber Company, and any and all other railroad or logging equipment not specified in Article (2) above.

(5). All the mules now owned by the party of the first part, there being fourteen of them; also nine lighters marked "BCL" and numbered one to nine, inclusive, the said nine lighters being all the lighters owned by the party of the first part, also one tug boat named "W. T. Riggan". The said lighters and boat will be offered for sale singly and as a whole and the bids reported to the court for confirmation."

(6). One locomotive purchased from H. K. Porter & Company, of Pittsburg, Pa., during the month of September, 1914, which is practically new and in good condition.

(7). All other personal property of every kind and description not included in the above description, which is now owned by the Buell-Crocker Lumber Company and located in Pender County, North Carolina, at or near Bannerman's Bridge, including tools, office furniture and all other personal property of every kind and description.

(8). All standing timber of every kind and description now located on the Morgan Lee Tract of land and yet uncut, and which was purchased by the Buell-Crocker Lumber Company from J. R. Marshburn and others.

TERMS OF SALE.

The above described property will be offered for sale in separate lots as above indicated, and then the entire property above described will be offered for sale in solido; the respective bids will be reported to the Court and the sale is made subject to the confirmation by the court. Purchasers will be required to deposit with the receivers on the day of the said sale cash or its equivalent in the amount of ten per cent of their respective bids as a guarantee of their good faith, said amount to be forfeited in the event the purchaser should fail and refuse to comply with the purchase; and on confirmation of said sale by the court the balance due on said purchase price to be paid in cash.

EVENTS OF A WEEK IN AND ABOUT LUMBERTON

Crops in Robeson Seem to be in Splendid Condition.

Roads and Drainage Needed—Bryan Invited—Successful Revival Closes. Two Beach Excursions are Booked—Personals.

(Special Star Correspondence.)

Lumberton, N. C., June 19.—During the week your correspondent has made several trips through various sections within ten miles of Lumberton, and the crops, as seen from the road, look to be in splendid condition in most instances, though it is said that growth has been retarded somewhat by the continued cool weather. During the week good seasonable showers have occurred generally through this section.

There is one portion of Robeson that certainly does need help in the way of roads and drainage. People living in other parts of the county have no idea of road conditions in Wisharts and Howellsville townships. In that respect, that section of the county is 50 years behind. Hundreds and thousands of acres of good farming lands are lying idle, all on account of no roads and no drainage. The people residing in these townships evidently have to pay taxes and justly think they should have some benefit in the way of roads, at least. The people in this territory are nearly all white, and if it could be developed as it should be it would be one of the best farming districts in the whole country.

When Mrs. Emily McLeod passed away Tuesday evening, Lumberton lost one of its best women. Mrs. McLeod was a lady of most beautiful Christian character, whom to know was to love. The writer had known this good lady from his earliest recollection, and feels that this community is better for her having resided here so long. She was kind, loving, unpretentious, and one of the best friends the needy of this section have ever had.

Excursions to Wilmington.

On Tuesday, June 29th, the Seaboard is going to run a big excursion from Rutherfordton to Wilmington, passing here at 3 o'clock in the afternoon and arriving at Wilmington at 5 o'clock. On the return trip the train will leave Wilmington at 8 A. M. July 1st, thus giving an all-day trip both ways in the day time. The fare from Lumberton for the round trip will be $1.75. Visitors will have ample time to visit the different beaches, take a trip down the historic Cape Fear, go out to sea, etc.

The Seaboard will operate a special train from Hamlet to Wilmington next Sunday, June 27th, leaving Hamlet at 6:30 A. M. The train will pass Lumberton about 8:12 and arrive in Wilmington at 11:10. Returning, the train will leave Wilmington at 7 P. M. The fare for the round trip from here will be $1.25. This train will stop at all stations, giving everybody a chance to visit the seashore and have a day's recreation. Among the hundreds of people who visited the beach from here on Sunday last year, the writer does not recall a single case of disorder.

Rev. N. R. Pitman, of Kansas City, Mo., has been a Lumberton visitor this week. Mr. Pitman is a native Robesonian, having been reared in the Fairmont section. Forty years ago he was a printer in the Robesonian office, and, while he entered the ministry when a very young man, he still loves the print shop and does editorial work on a paper in his adopted city. Mr. Pitman always receives a cordial greeting by his few surviving old time Lumberton friends.

A young man from St. Pauls was in town early this morning soliciting contributions for the relief of a family in distress. The family consists of husband, wife and 10 children, and 11 of the 12 members, all except the youngest child, are afflicted with pellagra. It is a genuine case for charity, as the young man carried a certificate signed by the county superintendent of health.

W. J. Bryan Invited.

The Woodmen of the World are making elaborate preparations for celebrating July Fourth on Monday, July 5th. An effort is being made to have Hon. W. J. Bryan speak here on that day, but as yet it is not known if he can accept the invitation. Thousands of visitors will be here.

Mr. and Mrs. S. A. Branch went to Richmond this week when Mrs. Branch entered a hospital for treatment. Mr. Branch will remain in Richmond until Mrs. Branch is able to return home.

At a regular meeting of St. Alban's lodge, A. F. & A. M., held Tuesday night, the following officers were elected for the ensuing Masonic year: E. J. Britt, W. M.; B. H. Stansel, S. W.; M. W. Floyd, J. W.; John P. McNeill, secretary; G. E. Rancke, Jr., treasurer.

Successful Revival Meeting.

Rev. Dr. Wilson, who has been here since Monday of last week assisting Rev. C. L. Greaves, pastor, in a revival meeting at the First Baptist church, left this morning for his home in Richmond, Va. The meeting will close tomorrow night, when the ordinance of baptism will be administered to more than 30 members.

Prof. R. E. Sentelle and family left this week for their summer home at Canton, N. C., 20 miles beyond Asheville. They traveled by the auto route, and Mr. S. S. Stephens, who carried them in his car, made the round trip in three days, leaving here at 5 A. M. Tuesday and arriving on the return trip at 9:30 P. M. Thursday.

A new United States flag, 10x16 feet, now floats in the breeze from the flagstaff on the court house, which adds much to the appearance of the handsome county building.

Messrs. A. P. McAllister, V. B. McMillan and W. I. Linkhaw, left this morning for Wilmington to join the bankers association on its trip to New York.

Mr. and Mrs. Rudolph Carlyle and Messrs. W. P. McAllister, Walter Bowden and Knox Proctor went to the mountains this week, traveling in automobiles. Messrs. Bowden and Proctor have returned.

Mrs. R. E. Lewis left Thursday for Hendersonville, where she will spend the summer with Mrs. W. P. McAllister, who went to that place several days ago for the summer.

The Wilmington-bound Seaboard train this morning took on about forty passengers here, ten of the number being for Wilmington. W. S. W.

THEATRICAL

"If its Worth Seeing—You'll see it first at the Bijou," and for tomorrow the home of "The Incomparable Movies" has one of the very biggest bills imaginable for their patrons—six solid reels.

"The Pursuit Eternal," is one of the very most thrilling, tense, strong dramatic plays of the year, in two reels, featuring that popular pair of dramatic stars, Hobart Henley and Frances Nelson in the leading roles. It tells a story replete with human interest, heart throbs, and strong dramatic incidents that will hold you spellbound throughout.

The Universal—originators of all the new movie ideas, have something entirely new tomorrow—photo-vaudeville. The first offering in this line is entitled "Should We Eat Pie," and features in the leading role "Alexander the Great," the world's most famous monkey comedian—a monkey who has traveled round the world presenting his act.

"Too Many Crooks," is an entirely original and new idea in a Nestor comedy, with Victoria Forde, Eddie Lyons and Lee Moran leading in the fun-making.

Then there's an exceptionally great two-reel United drama, "The Man and the Law," featuring Nobert Myles and Edna Payne, both formerly with the Universal, and very popular with Bijouites.

At the Victoria.

Commencing Monday night the Demorest Stock Company will open a week's engagement at the Victoria theatre with the pretty play in four acts "Just Plain Folks" which possesses a very pretty love story, with ludicrous comedy running through the entire play.

MIS SORA DEMOREST
With Demorest Stock Company, Victoria This Week.

Miss Ona Demorest will be seen in the leading role as Rose Baxter, while the rest of the company is well cast. Vaudeville will be presented between the acts. Wednesday night they present "Lena Rivers" in four acts, with Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday matinees.

At the Grand Tomorrow.

The Grand is presenting tomorrow two of the greatest comedians on the screen Charlie Chaplin in the Essanay comedy "By the Sea" and we are not saying he went out and bought it 'cause we have always been afraid of lightning—we just rented it and then the original Billie Reeves in a Lubin comedy "The Substitute." Reeves as everybody knows was the original comedian in the musical show "A Night in an English Music Hall," and he is one of the highest priced stars ever engaged for the screen. He has toured this country and England and doing his celebrated "Drunk" act over five thousand times and will be one of the "Screams of the Screen" he is a riot in the last scenes of the substitute as he gets into the prize ring and fights with his partner whom he knocks out in a blaze of glory.

At the Grand Tomorrow.

Then there is Charlie Chaplin with his big feet performing their usual mirth-provoking perambulations, wanders down to the seashore and some wind is blowing so Charlie anchors his hat with a young cable and meets a fellow traveler and trouble begins and the things that happen would stir the risibilities of the most forlorn gloom on the face of the earth.

Anita Stewart and Earl Williams are well cast in the two-reel Vitagraph "The Awakening" which is a wonderfully appealing picture perfectly interpreted under the direction of that master producer, Ralph Ince.

A CITY BUILT FOR MOTION PICTURES

Strand Magazine.

A few years ago a little man with a large head, a big heart, and a wide smile, day-dreamed. He saw in a vision beautiful a city of strangely fanciful architecture, whose varied nature would give one the impression that every part of the world had contributed something of its own. Here in vistas visionary the little man saw a university of men, scenes and homes.

The little man was Carl Laemmie. His dream never left him through years of rubbing the Aladdin's lamp of hard work. The genii has now delivered the substance of that dream. It is called Universal City—a garden spot eight miles from Los Angeles, California—and cost the Universal Film Company the ransom price of many kings. It is a monument to the faith of Carl Laemmie—faith which, aided by dollars, has removed mountains of doubt and pessimism as to the future of the motion-picture industry.

Back in the West, where Laemmie first had this dream, the indulgent friends who called him a lovable crank, and who put him in the class of enthusiasts who live and die thinking about perpetual motion and the fourth dimension, have changed their opinions. And these indulgent friends still have the same few hundreds of dollars tied up in the old stocking, which money Laemmie tried to induce them to invest with him when the dawn of moving picture boom broke the night of his obscurity.

The genii of the lamp was drowsy, and it took time and energy to make him execute the letter of the dream. Laemmie began modestly—as modestly as he talks. He organized the Universal Film Manufacturing Company. The moving-picture mania swept the world, and opportunity loomed large. The weaker companies staggered and dropped under loads of mismanagement and faulty diagnosis of public desire. The Universal with Laemmie moved on.

It was not much more than a year ago that the Universal built the largest and most up-to-date studio in the world at Hollywood, California. It had a capacity of twenty-five thousand feet of finished film a day. But this wasn't the city of which Laemmie had dreamed. The genii had erred. Laemmie journeyed from New York to Hollywood. It was fine, superb, but not the city of his long-cherished vision. "It will do for a year—until we can build the real Universal City," he said to a disappointed crowd of men who felt justified in believing that they had built something which merited longer than a year of life. "The real Universal City will turn out ten miles of drama—comedy and tragedy—every week." And so it has come to pass.

In this city of the cinema the Occident and the Orient, longitude and latitude meet. It is the biggest city of make-believe in the universe. Kipling said that "East is East and West is West," but here they are next door neighbors. Hindu streets and Afghan villages overlap on Western cattle-ranches. A teacher might readily say, "Go to Universal City and see the world." But visitors would never see the same city twice. It is chameleon—as changeable as a woman. Within three days its architecture can be altered to conform to any nationality or clime. There is no building within its limits that could not be radically changed in appearance almost over night.

Troy, Athens, Rome, Paris, London, and New York were or are all distinguished and characteristic cities. Troy is famed for its walls of defense, Athens for its sculpture and beautiful public places, Rome for its seven hills and public buildings; Paris for its Eiffel Tower and beautiful boulevards; London for its extent and diversity of architecture; New York principally for its sky-scrapers.

As regards the needs of motion-pictures, Universal City combines everything which could be found in any of these cities and could represent all of them within a week.

There is no utility shop put up for the use of workmen which could not be turned into a barracks for the quartering of soldiers, a hovel for the entertainment of thieves and desperadoes, or a ranch house for use in Western drama. The Administration Building itself is built with a different face on every quarter.

The streams and gullies which run through the city are constructed so that they may be diversified to suit the needs of the scenario. They can become part of a scene representing a Japanese arch bridge, a pontoon, a Roman stone-paved bridge, a steel cantilever or American trestle, an English causeway, or a Venetian bridge.

In walking around one of the buildings from the architecture on one side a visitor can imagine that he is in Spain. Going to the other side, he would find himself fancifully in a German village. Battle-scarred fields, Indian villages, and metropolitan streets run in continuous intimacy. The fur-clad inhabitants of Greenland hob-nob with the semi-naked savages of the South Sea Isles, like washerwomen over the back fence. It conjures Topsy-Turvy Land.

Simultaneous with the building of the Western Wonder City, Laemmie had his heart and his head in another operation—the erection of the largest Coytesville, New Jersey, just across est motion-picture studio in the East the ferry from New York City. Here, when it is finished, will work the Atlantic companies of the Universal, who are now housed mainly on Manhattan Isle itself.

The Imp Company, Laemmie's first producing enterprise, and the Victor Company have their working quarters here, under the able and shrewd guidance of Julius Stern, who is young enough to worry about it, and sufficiently old above the shoulders to do the thinking required of him. Here is another galaxy of screen stars and directors, including Mary Fuller, King Baggot, Ben Wilson, William Garwood, Violet Mersereau, Hobert Henley, Alen Holubar, Francis Nelson, Dorothy Phillips, Rosemary Theby, Harry Meyers, Clem Easton, Stuart Paton, George Lessey, and Lucius Henderson.

It needed grit and courage and faith to spend much more than a million dollars upon Universal City and the big Eastern studios at a time when business men throughout the world, because of the European war, were contracting their business or limiting it to its presen t development. But Laemmie had had a dream, and he could never rest until he had seen its consummation. Twice the floods came and the winds blew, sweeping away the work of weeks and months ,along with part of the dividends of the company.

Now it is finished, and Mrs. Laemmie won't have to worry about her husband lying sleepless thinking of men and buildings, horses and cows, into the hours of darkness and of dawn. And the Laemmie children will find their father more ready to tell them fairy tales and less inclined to go off in long reveries before the fire. For the dream of the little man with the large head and the big heart and the wide smile has grown from the city of the mists to the city of a thousand wonderful realities.

CHRIST'S CALL TO THE YOUNG WOMEN OF TODAY.

Topic for June 20, 1915.
Luke 10:38-42.

This passage is rather peculiar on first reading. Mary was sitting at the feet of Jesus while her sister was busy with household duties. When Martha came to Jesus and complained because Mary was not working, Christ seems to rebuke her for not following the example Mary had set. He does not, however, really administer any rebuke or criticism, but He means to teach Martha that everything has its place and that what Mary was doing is as essential a part of life as are the household duties.

Today is a day of specialists. We want a man or woman to be able to do one thing and do that one thing expertly. Qualified experts are in demand. The very mental attitude of our civilization today is conductive to the neglect of the claims of Christ unless one is "specializing" in Christian work.

There are so many affairs to occupy the mind and attention of the young women of today, that the claims of Christ upon their time and His call for their service are apt to be neglected. With social affairs and domestic activities and more recently with civic movements on the part of women, young women are apt to feel satisfied with these things and fail to recognize that these are not the sole or the most important matters that could engage their attention. Much of the time the attention of the young women of today is being turned towards maters of social reform and the affairs of spiritual interest are sometimes crowded out. There is nothing fair that can be said against this movement of women today, as far as they themselves are concerned, but these things and all other things that draw the attention of young women from the serious claims of Christ are to be condemned.

Christ's call to young women today is a call to service. It is a call to definite work. It is a call to specific obligation. It is not a demand that all young women shall go into any definite particular work, but it is a call that in whatever place they find the opportunity there they shall serve.

The call of Christ today to young women invites them to missionary fields. The call from all the fields is to women as well as men. In the annals of missionary history the names of women occupy as prominent a place as the names of men. As teachers, as medical missionaries, as Bible women, as evangelists, young women may find their field to serve. There is no reason why the call to missionary service should appeal to men more than to women. It is true there are hardships to be endured and dangers to be faced but every reason that would uphold a man's enduring and facing his hardships and dangers will impose upon a woman the same obligations.

Christ's call to young women today is in invitation to serve as Sunday school workers. Young women can be of great value to the church in the department of Sunday school work as Sunday school missionaries that can visit unoccupied territories and organize Sunday schools. As Sunday school experts they can visit schools and teach efficiency. At Sunday school conventions they can give the benefits of their training and their experience.

The Y. W. C. A. is an open field for service. Secretaries, leaders, etc., are needed in the work. The progress of this department of Christian activities is just beginning.

The call of Christ applies to every woman in whatever circumstances she may be. The call of Christ is for definite service. If young women of today would heed and obey the call it will settle the question of Sunday school teachers, leaders in women's work and other such problems that are before the Church. The need and the opportunity constitute the call.

It is often said that the highest call to young women is the call of home duties. This is true enough if she recognizes that one of her home duties is her religious duty. The young woman who finds herself restricted by the obligations of the home can nevertheless answer the call of Christ by making her home a definite Christian home.

Suggestive Thoughts.

Young women today can be missionaries, Sunday school workers, workers in Young People's Societies, pastors' assistants, secretaries of Young Women's Christian Associations, and even in some denominations, ministers of the Gospel.

No call can come to a young woman higher than to establish and conduct a Christian home; but this call is parallel with many other possible calls, and does not prevent them.

Women are entering all parts of the world's work today, but we must not forget that they were recognized by the Church ages before they were recognized by the secular world.

The most important call of women is to pass Christ's call on to the children.

After he was called to Europe, Paul's call to follow Christ was first heard by a woman; and ever since women have worked with men in spreading the Gospel.

Alongside of Christ's twelve disciples, all men, there were perhaps twelve other disciples, all women; and among these was no denier and no traitor.

To women, who were "last at the grave and earliest at the tomb", was given the high honor of being first to see the risen Lord. Let them proclaim that vision to all men.

The lily is not less honored than the oak, but it would be if it tried to be an oak.

Lesson XIII.—Second Quarter, For June 27, 1915.

THE INTERNATIONAL SERIES.

Text of the Lesson, Ps. lxxviii, 65-72. Quarterly Review—Golden Text, Ezek. xxxiv, 15—Commentary Prepared by Rev. D. M. Stearns.

LESSON I.—The resurrection, Matt. xxviii, 1-10. Golden Text, I Cor. xv, 15-20, "Now hath Christ been raised from the dead." In some respects the resurrection of Christ is the greatest event in all history, for had He not risen from the dead His life and death would have been no benefit to us (I Cor. xv, 14-18). The kingdom promised to David needs an immortal man as king, one alive from the dead.

LESSON II.—David anointed king, I Sam. xvi, 4-13. Golden Text, I Sam. xvi, 7, "Man looketh on the outward appearance, but Jehovah looketh on the heart." In the case of Saul God gave the people a man after their heart, but now He chooses a man after His own heart (chapter xiii, 14; Acts xiii, 22), the most unlikely, humanly speaking, of all the eight sons, but the Lord's own choice, and He is still looking for hearts that are whole toward Him.

LESSON III.—The shepherd psalm, Ps. xxiii. Golden Text, Ps. xxiii, 1, "Jehovah is my shepherd." Consider all the shepherd and shepherdess stories and then see the Lord Jesus as the good shepherd, the great shepherd, the chief shepherd and the shepherd who shall yet gather all Israel and feed them in a good pasture (John x; Heb. xiii; I Pet. v; Ezek. xxxiv, 14, 15). Such a shepherd can never let His sheep lack any good thing.

LESSON IV.—David and Goliath, I Sam. xvii, 38-51. Golden Text, Rom. viii, 31, "If God is for us, who is against us?" Truly a fearless shepherd, to whom the living God, though invisible, was more real than the visible mass of flesh and blood in the form of Goliath, His great desire being that all the earth might know that the God of Israel was the true God and that His name might be honored and not reproached.

LESSON V.—Saul tries to kill David, I Sam. xix, 1-12. Golden Text, Prov. xxix, 25, "Whoso putteth his trust in Jehovah shall be safe." From the day that the women ascribed more glory to David than to Saul, Saul was jealous of him and sought to kill him, but God delivered him not into his hand (chapters xviii, 7-9; xxiii, 14). Back of it all the reason is seen in Saul's disobedience and in his allowing an evil spirit to take possession of him (xvi, 14).

LESSON VI.—Friendship of David and Jonathan, I Sam. xx, 32-42. Golden Text, Prov. xvii, 17, "A friend loveth at all times." Consider how their souls were knit together from the day of David's victory over Goliath until David said after Jonathan's death, "Thy love to me was wonderful, passing the love of woman" (II Sam. i, 26). Yet such friendship was but a faint type of the love of Jesus Christ to us.

LESSON VII.—David spares Saul, I Sam. xxvi, 5-16. Golden Text, Luke vi, 27, "Love your enemies; do good to them that hate you." At least twice David had Saul wholly in his power, but refused to lay a finger on him to harm him. It was just the same on David's part when he was cursed and stoned by Shimei; he would allow no one to harm him, but just left him to God.

LESSON VIII.—David king over Judah and Israel, II Sam. ii, 1-7; v, 1-5. Golden Text, Ps. xxviii, 7: "Jehovah is my strength and shield. My heart hath trusted in Him and I am helped." In due time the Lord accomplishes every purpose of His, according to Jer. ii, 29; Ps. xxxiii, 11; Eph. i, 11, and so David became king over all Israel and went on and grew great, and the Lord God of hosts was with him (v, 5, 10). Just as surely Jesus Christ shall sit on David's throne in due time.

LESSON IX.—David brings the ark to Jerusalem, II Sam. vi, 12-15. Golden Text, Ps. cxxii, 1, "I was glad when they said unto me, Let us go unto the house of Jehovah." The story of the Ark of the Covenant always suggests the presence of God and His provision of perfect righteousness for sinful man. I think it the most wonderful type of the Lord Jesus in the Bible.

LESSON X.—Nathan rebukes David, II Sam. xi, 22-xii, 7a. Golden Text, Ps. li, 10, "Create in me a clean heart, O God." A sad lesson on the deceitfulness and desperate wickedness of the human heart even in such a chosen vessel as David. There is no perfect man in all the Bible story but Jesus of Nazareth, the Lamb of God without blemish and without spot, holy, harmless, undefiled and separate from sinners.

LESSON XI.—The blessedness of forgiveness, Ps. xxxii. Golden Text, Ps. xxxii, 1, "Blessed is he whose transgression is forgiven, whose sin is covered." How great and all sufficient is the sacrifice on Calvary which can put away transgression, sin, iniquity and guile. Then He becomes our home to dwell in, where we are safe from all enemies and our guide through all the wilderness of this world.

LESSON XII.—A prayer for the tempted, Ps. cxii. Golden Text, Ps. cxii, 9, "Keep me from the snare which they have laid for me." He who forgives and saves is able also to keep and to guard even from stumbling. He is able to control the tongue which no man can tame. He is nigh to all who call upon Him in truth.

SUNDAY SERVICES

THE SABBATH

This is the day of light:
Let there be light today;
O, Dayspring, rise upon our night,
And chase its gloom away.

This is the day of rest:
Our failing strength renew;
Our weary brain and troubled breast
Shed thou thy refreshing dew.

This is the day of peace:
With peace our spirits fill;
Bid thou the blasts of discord cease,
The waves of strife be still.

This is the day of prayer:
Let Earth to Heaven draw near;
Lift up our hearts to seek Thee there,
Come down to meet us here.

A $500,000 Gift To Users of Fortified Tires

Here's an actual gift.

Nobody asked for better tires than Goodyear built last year. They were so extra-good that for years these tires have outsold any other.

But we found new improvements. This year we add them at an extra cost of $500,000 for the year.

$5,000,000 Less

Yet this year—on February 1st—we made another big price reduction. On this year's probable output it will save Goodyear users some $5,000,000. And that was our third reduction in two years, totaling 45 per cent.

Tires Not Alike

Tires are not alike.

Goodyear Fortified Tires have five great features which no other maker uses. Each combats a major trouble. Together they save millions to our users.

They have other features not commonly employed, and each means extra wear.

If we omitted all these extras, we could save this year on our probable output $1,635,000, and pocket that extra profit.

We give you these extras at the Goodyear price through our matchless output. It is due to yourself that you get them. Any dealer, if you ask him, will supply you Goodyear tires.

MONTREAT FORESTRY CONFERENCE IN JULY

Promises to be Interesting and Largely Attended

Programme is More Than Usually Interesting—Special Railroad Rates to Black Mountain—Noted Speakers to be Heard.

The Summer Forestry Conference at Montreat, N. C., July 6-9, promises to be the most interesting and largely attended meeting yet held under the management of the North Carolina Forestry Association.

Special railroad rates of three cents per mile for the round trip to Black Mountain, two miles from Montreat, will be in effect July 1st, 2nd, 6th and 7th, good for 17 days. Regular tourist rates are in effect from June 1st to October 31st.

The program is more than usually interesting. Among those who are expected to speak are Dr. J. C. Rothrock, of Pennsylvania, often called "The Dean of American Forestry"; Mrs. T. W. Lingle, president of the State Federation of Women's Clubs; Dr. W. C. Coker, professor of botany of the University of North Carolina; Hon. Wm. L. Hall, assistant forester, United States Forest Service; Mr. Geo. C. Powell, of the Appalachian Park Association, and several others. Two illustrated lectures are scheduled, one on "Forests and Conservation," by Dr. Joseph Hyde Pratt, State Geologist, and the other on "Our National Forests and Their Administration," by a Federal forest officer.

In addition to the indoor meetings, two afternoon study rambles will be conducted by Mr. J. S. Holmes, State Forester, and Dr. Coker. An all-day trip to the top of Mount Mitchell is being arranged, and Governor Craig has promised, if possible, to attend and make an address at lunch time on this historic peak. The Mount Mitchell railroad is providing regular passenger service this summer.

This meeting is held in connection with the annual Chautauqua of the Mountain Retreat Association, and the hotels, boarding houses and grounds as well as other meetings and classes, will be open to all attending this conference. By special arrangements, all paid members of the North Carolina Forestry Association will be admitted to the grounds free for the three days of the conference. This includes entrance to all features of the conference. Other than paid members will be charged the regular fee of 25 cents per day, 40 cents for two days, 50 cents for three days, or $1 per week. These fees go to pay the expenses of the Chautauqua lecturers.

Members of the Forestry Association who have not yet paid the dues for 1915, as well as others who may wish to join the association, should send $1 to the treasurer, J. S. Holmes, Chapel Hill, N. C., and get an endorsed receipt entitling him or her to free participation in this conference.

J. S. HOLMES,
Secretary-Treasurer.

GETTING CLOSE TO THE Boys.

Where the "Son and Father Business" Comes In.

(Ellis Parker Butler, in the American Magazine.)

"What's your notion of this son and father business?" he asked suddenly.

"This what?" asked Mr. Lloyd.

"Son and father business," said Sime. "I say it's right—dead right. The way the little fellers look up to us and reach out their hands to us, so to say, and we say 'Git out and don't bother me; I'm busy!' and let them go off by themselves. I say it's the right idea—the biggest business us fathers have got or will ever get is raisin' up our sons right.

"Our sons might as well be in Patagonia or Hongkong for all the real near we get to them. You look at mother and daughter—sittin' side by side sewin' together, sharin' each other's play and work—and then look at us fathers and our sons. We live like there was a sheet glass wall between us—son on one side, father on other—see each other but never touch. Father is always too busy, hey? Dickens he is!"

"What is it, a regular movement like—like the Big Brother business?" asked Mr. Lloyd.

"I reckon," said Sime, "but that's nothin' to me. I've got my own son, movement or no movement, and it's up to me to make his pleasures my pleasures—to show some interest in what interests him once in a while. That's how to get close to him and get a grip on him so I can know he'll come to me when he needs a friend. When I think how often son has asked me to do this or do that with them and I've said 'No,' and he's gone off sort or disappointed when I might as well have said, 'Why yes, Son, I'll go with you; we'll have a good time don't that'—when I think of it and how I would have enjoyed it, and how he would have enjoyed it—"

He looked at the back of his brown hand and shook his head.

"And that ain't all there is to it," he went on. "Us fathers grow old fast enough. We get petrified and stiff in our hearts. If we cut loose and let ourselves be boys with our boys once in a while we wouldn't grow old so fast. We wouldn't get so all-fired selfish."

RESPONSIBILITY FOR FIRES.

Tenant Brings Suit Against Owner for Loss, Claiming Negligence.

Much of the value of the present agitation for the enactment of laws enforcing personal responsibility for preventable fires lies in its educational effect upon public sentiment. The suggestion of such measures brings home to property owners the fact of their responsibility and the equity of enforcing damages upon their neighbors whose carelessness may involve loss to them.

The personal responsibility bill was defeated in Indiana, but it evidently had its educational effect, for Lauretta Morgan, tenant of a building at 222 East Walnut street, Indianapolis, has brought suit against Edward Meyer, owner of the building, for $300 damages. She charges that two fires which occurred recently were due to a furnace pipe running through a closet and not properly installed nor protected. Her personal effects were damaged by fire, water and smoke, and because of the two fires her roomers left. She asks that the owner, whom she charges with responsibility for the cause reimburse her for the loss.—Journal of Commerce.

CARE OF THE BABY IN SUMMER

By the Children's Bureau, U. S. Department of Labor.

Nothing is so important to the health of the baby in summer as the right kind of food. When for any reason breast milk can not be had a substitute must be found.

Experience in many thousands of cases has shown that cows' milk is the only food that can take the place of mother's milk with even a fair prospect of having it agree with the baby. Neither condensed milk nor the infant foods sold in the stores are so good as clean cows' milk for the baby who can not have breast milk.

But to have clean milk it is necessary to have clean cows, clean barns, clean milkers, clean pails, and clean handling. Later articles in this series will deal more particularly with the subject of milk. The country mother is often able to see the conditions under which the milk she uses is produced. City mothers, on the other hand, have the protection that is afforded when the city inspects its own milk supply.

In some cities it is possible to buy what is known as "certified" milk. This costs a little more than ordinary milk, but its purity is guaranteed by the authorities. But when certified milk can not be had, and when it is impossible for a mother to see for herself how the milk she uses is produced, she should heat all the milk she uses for the boby, in order to kill the disease germs which it may be carrying. Among the disease germs which thrive in milk are those of tuberculosis, typhoid fever, diphtheria, scarlet fever and diarrhoea.

Germs multiply very rapidly in milk, so rapidly in fact, that even if it is reasonably clean when drawn it may become dangerous food if left standing in a warm place for some time. These germs may be killed by heating the milk. Boiling it for half an hour is a safe method, and is sometimes advisable in very hot weather; but the method of heating the milk without boiling it called pasteurizing, is usually employed. An easy method of home pasteurization is as follows:

Put a gallon of water over the fire in a clean pan or kettle. When the water is boiling hard take the kettle from the fire and allow it to stand on a table for ten minutes uncovered. Then put in the filled and corked nursing bottles and leave them for half an hour, covering the kettle meanwhile with a blanket. At the end of the half hour remove the bottles and cool them as quickly as possible to 50 degrees and put them where they will keep cold until needed.

When it is time to feed the baby take out a bottle and set it in a pail of warm water over the fire to heat. The mother may test the warmth of the milk by sprinkling a few drops on her arm. If it feels just slightly warm it will be right for the baby.

After the baby has finished, the bottle should be emptied, rinsed, and filled with cold water. At some convenient hour in the day the mother will wash all the used bottles with soap and warm water, using a bottle brush to clean the inside of them. She should then rinse them and boil them in the same pan or kettle in which they were pasteurized. This kettle and all the dishes used in preparing the baby's food should be kept for that purpose alone.

The nipples should be washed carefully. A little salt rubbed on the inside will remove the milk. They should then be rinsed and dropped into boiling water for a few minutes. They will dry with their own heat when removed. They should then be put away in a dry glass jar that has also been boiled, covered and kept out of the light.

When handling the sterilized nipples take hold of them by the lower rim. Do not touch the part which is to go into the baby's mouth. Never put the nipple into the mouth to test the milk, as the baby might easily be made sick if the mother happened to have a cold or throat trouble.

It will be found convenient to have enough bottles, nipples, and clean bottle corks for the entire 24 hours, and it will be a great saving of time if all the feedings are made up at once. This will also insure their being of uniform quality.

A later article will give a few directions for modifying the milk for babies of different ages. Whenever possible, it is best for a mother to have the advice of a good physician in regard to feeding her baby.

Whenever possible the baby's bottles should be kept on ice. A home-made refrigerator which will keep the milk sweet for 24 hours is easily and cheaply made at home. For this purpose procure a lard or candy pail, or a galvanized bucket, or even a wooden box with a cover. In the bottom place a layer of sawdust an inch thick. Inside the box or pail place another smaller receptacle, such as a 10-quart pail (tin), with a cover, and fill all the space around it with sawdust. The inner pail holds the ice and the milk.

The ice will keep longer if it is broken up and inclosed in a small covered pail. Put the little pail in the bottom of the refrigerator and pack the bottles around it, and put the cover on. Then close the outer cover, which for additional protection may be lined with newspapers, or with a cushion stuffed with hay or straw. Where ice can not be had, the bottles may stand in a pail, under a stream of running water.

A bottle baby should be fed with the same regularity as a nursing baby. The bottles may be given at 6 and 9 A. M., at 12 M., and at 3, 6 and 9 P. M. Up to the age of four months the baby will need one more night feeding. After that he should sleep all night.

Beginning at the fifth month the time between feedings should be lengthened a quarter of an hour each week until the interval is four hours, when the baby is six months old. Give no other food than the bottle feedings and drinking water in the first few months of the baby's life.

The baby should nurse slowly, but ought to finish his feeding in about 20 minutes. If he is inclined to take his food too greedily, withdraw the nipple from his mouth several times during the feeding and let him rest a moment.

It is especially important in summer not to over-feed the baby. It is far better to keep him on rather a low diet than to bring on an attack of diarrhoea by giving him too much food, or that which is unsuitable, or by feeding him at irregular intervals.

To the Star:

As you have reproduced the communication of Prof. Spaegh in the New York Times, I will thank you to give your readers the benefit of Mr. Bigelow's reply, which I am enclosing herewith. Many of the conclusions reached by Prof. Spaegh are perfectly sound, but his premises are mainly wrong. There can be no difference of opinion on the following propositions:

FIRST, The right of citizens of a neutral country to ship munitions of war to belligerents. This right has always been exercised by Germany, and her great Krupp works have been developed through unrestricted trade in armaments and munitions.

SECOND, The right by blockade to starve a civil population as a means to shortening war is a well-recognized practice. Bismarck defended this right and employed it in the reduction of Paris during the Franco-Prussian war.

THIRD, The German Government has taken over all domestic supplies, so that shipments to the civil population would strengthen the government's military resources, for it is too plain for argument that if domestic supplies can be conserved for military purposes and the demands of the civil population supplied from without, Germany's economic position would be greatly strengthened and her possibility of carrying on the war greatly increased.

FOURTH, Germany claims that she cannot be starved out, and that prices are no higher now in the principal markets of the country than they were before the outbreak of the war.

If the blockade maintained by the Allies cannot starve Germany out, what is the justification for the submarine warfare against merchant ships and the taking of innocent neutral lives?

SUBSCRIBER.

Malden-on-Hudson, June 8, 1915.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

On the two occasions when I had the honor of addressing Princeton University I carried away admiration for the intellectual elasticity of that audience, and was inclined to give the credit to the excellent men composing the Faculty.

It is for this reason that I marvel at the long letter in today's Times contributed by Ernst Johann Spaeth of that Faculty. For in that letter this learned Ph. D. of Leipsic takes as a compliment to German Kultur President Wilson's masterly sarcasm when referring to the massacre of the Lusitania as having been perpetrated by a government hitherto "humane and enlightened."!

It is not my purpose to argue a point of humor with Princeton's Professor of English Letters; but to point out an error in the field of history—a department where exactness is of more importance than even elegance of diction. Dr. Spaeth describes England as the "most gigantic conspiracy in restraint of trade ever organized"—and as truth is dear to the American reader, who may be impressed by the academic titles of my Leipsic friend, permit me in a few words to examine gently this strange statement.

Not many years ago I sat on the club veranda at Singapore and counted twenty-five funnels of a single German steamer line. From Singapore I went to North Borneo; there was but one line—a German—and that line carried the British mail. Later I went to Siam from Singapore. It was on a steamer of this same German line, carrying British mail. There was no other. Thence I went to Hongkong by the same excellent German line. Later I went to Australia—it was by one of this same line. To Java and the Eastern Archipelago, to Penang—it was always this vast German company doing not only all the Germans, but the British mail service as well. The German traders, with whom I mixed, freely, marveled at the infantile generosity with which Great Britain opened all her ports to German enterprise, although long-headed people shook their heads at the thought of German skippers having a better acquaintance with British waters than their own people.

Nowhere in the British colonial world have I found the slightest evidence of commercial monopoly and certainly no favoring of Englishmen at the expense of Germans.

Even in India the German commercial traveler has roamed at will and driven Englishment out of business under the very noses of the Calcutta Council. Germans have assured me on what they deemed the best authority that in the event of war India would immediately rise as one man and chase every Englishman into the sea. Yet when I was there the whole British garrison numbered a mere 75,000 white men over a native population nearly three hundred million.

Officers close to the Berlin Court have welcomed this war to me on the ground that all South Africa would rise and fight for Germany. It was idle for me to tell them that my experience led me to a different conclusion; they knew better. They were all Doctors of Philosophy—and besides: Wir Deutsche wissen das Alles besser * * *

In my studies in the economic field, studies that have carried me to most of the British no less than German colonies, I have searched in vain for that "restraint of trade" which Dr. Spaeth attributes to John Bull. On the contrary, where I have found a "most gigantic conspiracy in restraint of trade" has been in the Imperial German colonies, where competing English traders have been treated to a systematic course of petty official restrictions so vexatious that finally they have given up the attempt to do business under German conditions. When I was in German New Guinea this official persecution went so far that a British trading steamer was even forbidden to get water, in order to force it to abandon trade with the natives of that neighborhood.

Why is it, lieber Herr Doktor, that British colonies are crowded with Germans? Why is it that no German is willing to colonize on German soil? Does Dr. Spaeth know that nearly every one of Germany's colonies was virtually a gift from England, at a time when Bismarck was anxious to amuse his people by foreign toys, and when Lord Salisbury held all tropical colonies as of doubtful value? He gave away the western section of South Africa, which has been ever claimed as part of Cape Colony. He gave away an empire to the north of Australia, which the people of that Commonwealth have bitterly resented. Wherever the Black Eagle has shown itself on colonial soil, that soil has suddenly pined as with blight. Prussian rule alone has flourished; the natives have been reduced to slavery or escaped to the jungle; German colonists have been conspicuous by their absence.

For the benefit of Dr. Spaeth, whose colonial experience has been gained in the Aula of Leipsic, let me state that today the British flag in every one of her varied colonial possessions represents to Germans, no less than to the natives, more of justice and liberty than either of them have ever tasted before. Germany today is cordially detested in every German colony—or was at the time of my last inquiry. On the contrary, England could raise volunteer regiments in Basutoland or Rhodesia; North Borneo or Hongkong; Jamaica or Barbadoes; and as to India, her Sihks, Gurkhas and Pathans have given but a foretaste of what is yet coming from the Indus and Ganges to vindicate Britain's honest rule in the Far East.

In a short letter I cannot enter into details, or I would develop the distinction between India and all other British possessions. I also anticipate my German friend, who remarks that British colonies do discriminate in favor of the mother country; but we also know that colonies who do that are beyond the mother country's control, like Canada. But in so-called Crown colonies like Hongkong, the German trader has the same advantages as every other—or did have these advantages until God smote his rulers with megalomania, and called forth war on a scale of magnitude and misery undreamed of in the best days of the wars for religion or for the conquest of Peru.

There are people who can be satisfied with little if they know their neighbors have less.

This is a poor kind of philosophy.

It is not necessary to recommend any such doctrine to those who buy Diamond Squeegee Tread Tires.

They have a right to demand much, no matter how little their neighbors get out of other tires.

Unbeatable mileage economy, unusual freedom from trouble on the road, and unexcelled service under all conditions are some of the things the man who uses Diamond Squeegee Tread Tires has the right to expect.

And he gets them.

LESS ACTIVITY IN COTTON

Prices Fluctuate Within Narrow Range, With Close Unchanged to Two Points Higher.

New York, Jun e19.—After a very quiet week, the cotton market today was even less active than usual for a Saturday and prices fluctuated within a range of three or four points with the close steady unchanged to two points higher.

Liverpool was rather lower than due and the market here opened unchanged to four points lower. Offerings were limited and the market soon steadied on favorable reports from the dry goods trade with active months working up to about last night's closing figures. This bulge reflected nothing more than a little covering, however, and subsequent fluctuations were irregular. Press advices from Manchester stated that labor troubles had been practically settled and they also reported an improvement in the demand from China and South American markets. New England mills are working more nearly up to their full capacity than they were at this time last year, and it is reported that Southern manufacturers are well supplied with forward business. These advices tended to offset the influence of favorable weather and crop reports.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON.

Fluctuations Very Narrow and Trading on a Small Scale.

New Orleans, June 19.—Fluctuations were again very narrow in the cotton market today and there was little trading. The close was unchanged to three points down compared with the last prices of yesterday, July being the only one of the active months to make any net change. At the best prices were 2 to 4 points over yesterday's finals.

Cables were somewhat lower than due, but their effect was checked by the large mill takings for the week. The weather map was considered almost perfect, practically no rain falling in the belt, but it did not stimulate selling because of private crop accounts telling of deterioration as the result of recent rains.

Cotton futures closing: July 9.23; October 9.66; December 9.87; January 10.00; March 10.24.

Spot quiet, unchanged; middling 9.12; sales on the spot 520; to arrive 200.

COTTON SEED OIL MARKET

New York, June 19.—Cottonseed oil was a shade easier under scattered liquidation today the result of poor demand in general and the lower ruling in hog products. Final prices were one to two points net lower. Sales 7,900 barrels.

The market closed a trifle easy. Spot 6.05 to 6.22; June 6.08 to 6.22; July 6.17 to 6.19; August 6.33 to 6.34; September 6.48 to 6.49; October 6.51 to 6.52; November 6.46 to 6.48; December 6.48 to 6.52; January 6.52 to 6.54.

LITTLE DEMAND IN STOCKS

Week-End Session of Market Shows Negligible Character—War Specialities on Advance.

New York, June 19.—The negligible character of the week-end session on the stock exchange may be judged from the fact that such shares as Baldwin Locomotives and Distillers' Securities constituted its most prominent features. Both of these issues made new high records, Baldwin at 66 1-2 and Distillers at 28 1-2. Other war specialties and a few inconspicuous industrials rose one to two points, but the usual speculative favorites were at no time in real demand. United States Steel moved within narrow limits.

General news of the day included another batch of $2,500,000 gold from Canada. From all foreign sources, including the Orient, imports of gold to this country since the beginning of the year now total $112,250,000.

Bond market steady and dull. Total sales, par value, aggregated $806,000. United States bonds unchanged on call during the week.

COTTON GOODS REVIEW

Generally Steady But Quiet During the Past Week—Good Undertone.

New York, June 19.—Cotton goods are generally steady and quiet. Occasionally lapses occur in gray goods of printcloth yarn constructions and in some lines of sheetings, but on the whole the market has a good undertone. Largest export demands are for cotton duck and duck products, hosiery and underwear, with a miscellaneous demand from West Indian and South American points. Movement of merchandise on old orders is full.

Lack of inducement to press for future business results from dyestuffs scarcity, desire to know more about the new cotton crop, and unwillingness to move ahead while uncertainty prevails in international relations.

Business in fine wash goods, white goods an dsummer dress goods continues steady and fine goods mills are better employed for many months.

Hosiery and underwear show improvement while yarn markets have been easy and quiet. Prices: Printcloths 28 inches 64 by 54s, 3 1-4 cents, 64 by 60s, 3 1-8 cents, 38 1-2 inch 64 by 64s, 4 1-8 cents, brown sheetings, Southern standards 6 1-4 cents, and 6 1-2 cents, denims 9 ounce 13 1-4 cents. Tickings 8 ounce, 11 1-2 cents, prints 5 1-4 cents, staple ginghams 6 1-4 cents, dress ginghams 9 1-4 cents.

SAVANNAH NAVAL STORES

Savannah, June 19.—Turpentine steady 41 1-4 to 41 1-2, sales none. Receipts 281, shipments 426, stock 15,042.

Rosin firm, sales 1,664. Receipts 891, shipments 1,317, stock 57,264. Quote: A B, 3.05; C D, 3.10; E, 3.20; F, 325; G, 3.32 1-2; H, 3.35; I, 3.40; K, 3.80; M, 4.20; N, 5.35; WG, 6.00; WW 6.55.

CHICAGO LIVE STOCK MARKET

Chicago, June 19.—Hogs firm. Bulk 7.60 to 7.85; light, 7.60 to 7.90; mixed 7.40 to 7.90; heavy 7.10 to 7.80; rough 7.10 to 7.30; pigs 6.25 to 7.60.

Cattle steady. Native beef steers 6.80 to 9.50; western steers 7.00 to 8.25; cows and heifers 3.25 to 9.00, calves 7.00 to 9.75.

Sheep steady. Sheep 5.50 to 6.40; lambs 6.75 to 9.25; springs 6.25 to 9.75.

RESERVE BANK STATEMENT.

Washington, June 19.—Legal tender notes and silver in the hands of the Federal Reserve Banks increased more than $4,000,000 during the last week, according to a statement of their condition June 18, issued today by the Federal Reserve Board.

NEW YORK PROSIVION MARKET

New York, June 19.—Butter barely steady. Cheese firm. Coffee, spots quiet. Rio 7s 7 1-2, Santos 4s 9 5-8. Holiday in sugar market.

GOMPERS IS FOR PEACE BUT NOT AT ANY PRICE

Head of Federation of Labor Expresses Opinion

In a Letter Made Public at Washington Great Labor Leader Says Some Things More Abhorrent Than War.

Washington, June 19.—Declaring that while he had always abhorred war but believed there were things even more abhorrent, Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, in a letter made public here tonight, sets out his position as to international peace. The letter was addressed to Ernest Bohm, secretary of the Central Federated Union of New York, and expressed Mr. Gompers' regret at his inability to speak at a peace meeting to which he had been invited.

"As far back as my young manhood," Mr. Gompers wrote, "I have always stood for peace; have had an abhorrence of war, with all the brutality which it entailed but I have no hesitancy in saying to you that in my judgment there are some things that are even more abhorrent than war, that is, to be robbed of the birth right of freedom, justice, safety and character. Against any attempt of any person or group of persons or nation or nations who may be engaged in an effort to undermine or destroy the fundamentals of normal human existence and development, I would not only fight to defeat it, but prevail upon every red blooded liberty and humanity loving man to resist to the last degree.

"The American Federation of Labor, as a great group representing the workers of America and I as an officer and a man, have done something for the maintenance of peace and are willing to go to fullest lengths of its maintenance. I am not willing to have either the labor movement or our men and women placed in a false position. The United States will not voluntarily enter into the present European war. Of that I am confident. We shall keep out of it, if we possibly can with any degree of faithfulness to the fundamentals principles of justice, freedom and safety. If, despite our reserve and self-respect, we shall be dragged into it whether we like it or not, there will be but one position for us to take and that is to be true to ourselves, true to our fellows, true to the highest ideals of humanity and thus our position stands."

FRENCH REVIEWS CAVALRY.

On Anniversary of Battle of Waterloo on Waterloo Field.

(By Frederick Palmer, for The Associated Press.)

General Headquarters of the British Army in France, June 18, via London June 19.—On this centennial anniversary of the Battle of Waterloo, Field Marshal Sir John French, the British commander, visited a cavalry division not long out of the trenches. By brigades those who had survived the shells and asphyxiating gas of the second battle of Ypres were awaiting in a field near their quarters his coming, their khaki melting into the green of the grass where they lay resting and bathing themselves in the genial sun of a mild June day.

When an automobile appeared with the little British flag which only the commander-in-chief's car flies, they formed a hollow square. The absolute simplicity of this meeting of leader and men, and the thought of all they went through, made the scene a most affecting one. The sturdy, white haired soldier was carrying the customary walking stick which every British officer affects, with a little blaze of colors of his many campaigns on his breast.

The general stood in the center of the square before the famous first life guards. With them were other regiments who had won glory at Waterloo. Sir John did not make a speech, but spoke as soldier to soldier, hesitating for words at times in his emotion. The men were actually seeing the commander-in-chief, who in the complicated immensity of modern war is only a name to them.

While Wellington personally encouraged his soldiers in a battle a century ago which occupied hardly the front of a brigade in the trenches this was the only way a modern commander could make his men feel that he was a human leader and not a machine. As a cavalryman, he said:

"I knew what you were capable of, and you have shown that you are equal to any work required of a soldier. It requires more dogged tenacity, more courage, to stand for many stands in the trenches than to make one brave charge.

"Against the dastardly attack at Ypres with a weapon against all usages when clouds of gas rolled over your trenches, gasping, blinding and in darkness you stood your ground with a determination which prevented a terrible disaster."

WILL RESIST LANDING.

Maytorena Will Consider Landing of American Troops as Hostile Act.

Nogales, Sonora, June 19. — Governor Jose Maytorena authorized the statement today that the entire forces under his command would be used, if necessary, to resist the landing of American marines on the West coast to protect foreign settlers of the Yaqui Valley.

A detachment of nearly 1,000 troops sent to the Yaqui Valley yesterday, he said, was dispatched primarily to protect settlers and their crops from the Indians, but they had orders to resist any landing of American military forces.

"The forces at our disposition," said Governor Maytorena, "are sufficient to afford ample protection to all foreigners and their interests. There is no necessity for the landing of American marines at Tebari Bay, or elsewhere."

DR. HENRY CLARKSON DEAD.

Confederate Soldier and Author of Poems of the South, Passes.

Manassas, Va., June 19.—Dr. Henry M. Clarkson, Confederate soldier and author of poems of the South, was buried here yesterday. Dr. Clarkson served as a gunner at Fort Sumter and is said to have fired the only shot from Fort Moultrie, having been one of the three men who fired on the Star of the West. Later he became a surgeon in the Confederate army. He was a native of Charleston, S. C., and was 80 years old. His death occurred at Haymarket, Va., Thursday.

DANA SAYS WIFE'S DEATH "TRAGIC BUT BEAUTIFUL."

Suicide by Drowning and Subsequent Peculiar Burial Spoken Of.

Cambridge, Mass., June 19.—In a statement tonight Edmund T. Dana, assistant professor at the University of Minnesota, described the suicide of his young wife by drowning at Nantucket Thursday as a "tremendously tragic but beautiful end."

"Mrs. Dana," her husband said, "had always held the stoical idea that it is more dignified to die of one's own will, than to leave the hour and manner to circumstances. Personally, I am glad it was an act of my wife's own choice and not a horrid accident, though it was a pathetic mistake that made her feel the world would be better without her."

Continuing, Mr. Dana explained that his wife's health began to run down after the birth of her child.

"She believed she would never be able to take care of the baby properly," he said, "and would handicap her husband in his life work. Her artistic sense made her feel that a thing should be perfect or not at all."

Mrs. Dana was the daughter of Henry Holliday, a wealthy steel manufacturer of Wales. Her husband is a grandson of Longfellow, the poet.

COBB STILL HOLDS ONLY BATTING AVERAGE OF .400.

Though New Leaders Have Appeared During Week—Averages.

Chicago, June 19.—While Ty Cobb holds the lead in the American League with the only batting average in the majors better than .400, new leaders have appeared in the National and Federal, according to figures published here today. Jake Daubert is ahead in the National and Vincent Campbell in the Federal.

The leading batters of the National League who have played in at least half of the games, including those of last Wednesday, are: Daubert, Brooklyn, .370; Luderus, Philadelphia, .364; Good, Chicago, .347; Doyle, New York, .335, and Fletcher, New York, .327. New York is first in club batting with .266. Leading pitchers of the league are Meadows, St. Louis, won 6 and lost 1; Mayer, Philadelphia, 11 and 2; Ragan, Boston, 5 and 1, and Pierce, Chicago, 5 and 1. Batting leaders in the American League who have played in at least half of the games are: Cobb, Detroit, .401; Jackson, Cleveland, .364; Fournier, Chicago, .357; Veach, Detroit, .332, and LaJoie, Philadelphia, .315.

RUBBERLESS AUTO TIRES

Invented and in Use by Southern Railway Conductor.

(Special Star Correspondence.)

Greensboro, N. C., June 19.—Mr. J. H. Gilliland, who is a conductor on the Southern Railway between Greensboro and Goldsboro, has invented what he believes will dispense with automobile tires, or rather rubber tires. He has been working upon his plan for some time and it is patented. It consists of an arrangement of springs and pistons that will take up the rebound from the car that heretofore has been divided between rubber tires and springs. He has a car fitted up with his device and it is said to ride well without rubber tires.

Canning Demonstration.

Mrs. E. R. Herring requests The Star to announce that there will be a canning demonstration at the school house at Winter Park tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock. There will also be a demonstration at Wrightsboro in the school house of Tuesday at 3 p. m. The Wrightsboro school house is on the Castle Haynes road.
